CHURCH OF ENGLAND NAMES FIRST FEMALE ARCHBISHOP OF CANTERBURY

The Church of England on Friday named Sarah Mullally as the next Archbishop of Canterbury, the first woman to hold the 1,400-year-old office

TO LEAD 85 MN ANGLICANS IN 165 COUNTRIES

As the principal leader of the Church of England, Mullally, 63, will now lead 85 million Anglicans across 165 countries. She will replace Justin Welby, who resigned last year over a child abuse cover-up scandal. Mullally is a former cancer nurse who worked as the UK government's Chief Nursing Officer for England in the early 2000s. She became a priest in 2006 | P12

TO OFFICIALLY TAKE CHARGE IN MARCH 2026

- Mullally will be known as Archbishop of Canterbury-designate till she is confirmed in January 2026 and officially takes charge in March
- She may face opposition from conservative churches in Africa and Asia, which rejected the reforms introduced a decade ago that made it possible for a woman to become the Archbishop of Canterbury

TJS, THAT LEGEND DOWN THE CORRIDOR

THERE are journalists, and then there are journalists who get that rare prefix, 'legendary'. TJS George belonged to this second order, an endangered tribe these days. Its list of card-holding members got rarer still when the man passed away today, at age 97.

Behind him trails a career in letters that has spanned about as long as the life of the Indian republic, and as varied. From his erudition in Carnatic music that birthed a book on MS Subbulakshmi, and others on VK Krishna Menon as well as Nargis, it also contained landmarks in good old-fashioned print journalism, such as being the founding editor of Asiaweek in Hong Kong back in the 1970s—an act of pan-Asia ecumenism that would have resonated well today.

That such an eminence was a living presence in the offices of The New Indian Express till the other day was a matter of honour and delight equally for all of us here. It was only in June 2022 that he laid his pen to rest after writing his last column, the Sunday Point of View, in his inimitable, no-holds-barred style—sharp, ironic, fearless. Over 25 years, he contributed 1,300 columns for these pages.

SANTWANA BHATTACHARYA
EDITOR

Politicians, judges and powerful people feared and respected his pen, and treaded carefully around him. He was famously unpredictable. In our Bangalore office, when a VVIP dropped by wanting to meet him, we would exchange nervous glances. If it was his column-writing hour—always longhand, pen on paper—he would refuse to meet them, however important they might be.

Siddaramaiah, the current chief minister, had a taste of that brusqueness when TJS admonished him in a humorous, schoolmasterly way on one such visit—for wasting time in a newspaper office instead of working among the people! No one took offence. Once at a function in Mysore, SM Krishna, then External Affairs Minister, vacated his seat for TJS when he saw him standing, but characteristically he refused.

Such was the awe he inspired among Union ministers, high court judges, chief ministers. Even when his columns were scathing, the powerful usually held their peace—it was only their sycophants who protested. He had opinions, he took stands, and never wavered, even when it led to sedition charges in earlier years. The only man he openly admired was our founder, Ramnath Goenka.

"I have no god," he would often say. A non-believer, or rather a believer only in humanity, and in journalism as a calling. He taught generations of journalists the importance of precision in language, and of calling a spade a spade. Outside the newsroom, George had deep interests in cities and food. He was fascinated by urban planning—often comparing the systematic grid of New York, where he and his beloved wife Ammu lived during his UN years, with the chaos of Bangalore's house numbering. In his last few years, he spent his winters in Coimbatore, leaving the chaos of Bangalore behind him, to "best idlis, dosas and coffee". P2, P9

Stern Army, IAF warning to Pak

India won't show restraint next time, says Army Chief; Pak lost 12-13 aircraft during Operation Sindoor

This time we will take a step forward and act in a manner that will make Pakistan think whether it wants to remain on the world map or not

— Army Chief Gen Upendra Dwivedi

We have clear evidence of one long-range strike with over 300 kms range hitting an AEW&C or SigNit aircraft, along with five hi-tech fighters - F-16 and JF-17

Air Chief A P Singh

MAYANK SINGH @ New Delhi

TWO service chiefs on Friday used strong language to put Pakistan on notice, a day after Union defence minister Rajnath Singh said any misadventure from across the border in the Sir Creek sector will invite a decisive response.

Addressing soldiers in Rajasthan, Army chief General Upendra Dwivedi said Pakistan should stop sponsoring terrorism on its soil if it wants to retain its place on world map.

"India practised restraint during Operation Sindoor 1.0, but this time we won't. This time we will take a step forward and act in a manner that will make Pakistan think whether it wants to remain on world map or not," he warned.

In Delhi, Air Chief Marshal AP Singh told the media ahead of the annual Air Force Day that the IAF destroyed around 12-13 aircraft during the Operation Sindoor, which included Chinese-made JF17s and F-16s procured from the US. He described Islamabad's claim of India's losses as fanciful stories (Manohar Kahaniyan).

Recalling the widespread destruction of Pakistani military assets both in the air and on the ground during Operation Sindoor in May, he said, "radars at least in four places, command and control centres at two places, runways damaged at two places, three of their hangars in three different stations damaged... we have signs of one C-130 class of aircraft and at least 4-5 fighter aircraft (in one strike), most likely F-16s, because that place happened to be F-16 base with whatever was under maintenance at that time."

Besides, one SAM (Surface to Air Missile) system was destroyed in Pakistan. "We have clear evidence of one long-range strike of more than 300 km, which happened to be either an AEW&C (Airborne Early Warning and Control System) or a SigNit aircraft. Along with that five hi-tech fighters between F-16 and JF 17 class (were shot down)—this is what our system tells us," the Air Chief said.

He refused to reveal India's losses during Op Sindoor. "Let them find out," he said.

India flags PoK rights violation amid unrest

JAYANTH JACOB @ New Delhi

REACTING strongly to the ongoing unrest in Pakistan-occupied Kashmir (PoK), India on Thursday called on the international community to hold Pakistan accountable for its "horrific human rights violations" and systemic exploitation of the region under its illegal occupation.

Randhir Jaiswal

External Affairs Ministry spokesperson Randhir Jaiswal condemned the Pakistani military's brutal crackdown on protesters across multiple areas of PoK. "We have seen reports on protests in several areas of Pakistan-occupied Jammu & Kashmir, including brutalities by Pakistani forces on innocent civilians. We believe this is a natural consequence of Pakistan's oppressive approach and systemic plundering of resources from these territories," Jaiswal said.

"Pakistan must be held accountable for its horrific human rights violations," he said.

For over a week now, large-scale protests led by the Awami Action Committee (AAC) have swept across PoK, with Rawalakot, Mirpur, Kotli and Neelum Valley among the worst-hit. The region has witnessed a complete shutdown, with businesses closed and transport services paralysed in what has been described as the largest civil uprising in PoK in recent years.

The AAC has accused the Shehbaz Sharif government of denying fundamental rights to the people of the region, demanding an end to what it calls institutional discrimination. The protests have also raised calls for the abolition of 12 reserved seats in the PoK legislative assembly allocated to Kashmiri refugees living in Pakistan—seen by many as a tool to manipulate regional politics.

The situation is volatile, with reports confirming at least 10 protest-related deaths and a near-total suspension of internet and mobile services to suppress the unrest.

15-DAY EXERCISE

Socio-Economic Survey to begin today in Bengaluru

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ Bengaluru

THE Karnataka Socio-Economic and Educational Survey will commence in Bengaluru on Saturday, and has to be completed in 15 days. Each surveyor will have to spend 20 minutes at a house collecting data, and by 4 pm daily, will have to assemble at a mustering point to apprise the details to higher officials and store the collected data at the point, across five municipal corporations. To monitor and supervise the exercise, the GBA has appointed revenue officers and KAS officers as nodal officers.

The second phase of training of surveyors concluded on Friday. As part of the final training session for over 300 surveyors at Town Hall, enumerators were given information about the website, uploading data, and conducting house-to-house data collection.

"There were issues with ward selection, as well as some confusion about using the app. Some of us are even facing logging issues due to a server problem. All this impacted the survey training. Amid these challenges, the survey will commence on Saturday. We hope our hardwork is recognised, and we will appeal to the public to cooperate and give details," said a surveyor.

"Each enumerator will have to cover 300 homes in 15 days. In case they are absent without any valid reason, they will face action," said an official.

Meanwhile, GBA Chief Commissioner M Maheshwar Rao, addressing a virtual meeting, said the surveyors assigned by various departments to conduct the survey have been trained twice in the respective municipal corporations, and have been instructed to expedite the survey work. P2

US Senators question the hiring practices of TCS, nine other firms

H-1B hires

The Senators specifically asked the tech firms why they were hiring foreign workers under H-1B despite layoffs in the US tech sector

SANAL SUDEVAN @ Chennai

TWO US Senators have shot off a letter to the Tata Consultancy Services (TCS), raising concerns about its hiring practices in the US and questioning its rationale for filing thousands of H-1B visa petitions after allegedly laying off local staff.

Senate Judiciary Committee Chairman Charles Grassley and ranking member Richard Durbin also questioned Cognizant, Amazon, Apple, Deloitte, Google, JPMorgan Chase, Meta, Microsoft, and Walmart, seeking details of their recruitment practices and wage parity between H-1B visa holders and American employees.

In their letter to TCS CEO Krithi Krithivasan on September 24, Grassley and Durbin flagged "troubling employment trends" in the tech sector.

"Earlier this year, the Wall Street Journal reported that the tech sector's unemployment rate was "well above" the overall jobless rate," read the letter addressed to Krithivasan.

Among Indian tech firms, TCS is the biggest beneficiary of H-1B visa with 5,005 approvals so far in 2025.

PRR project moves forward with new identity, fresh features

Rebranded as 'Bengaluru Business Corridor', it will have 8-lane expressway

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ Bengaluru

THE long-stalled 74-km Peripheral Ring Road (PRR) project, pending for nearly two decades, is finally moving forward with a new identity and a fresh set of features. Rebranded as the 'Bengaluru Business Corridor (BBC)', the project will comprise an 8-lane expressway.

BBC Chairman LK Atheeq announced that the total Right of Way (ROW) proposed is 65 metres, of which 41 metres will be taken up by the 8-lane expressway with a 5-metre median reserved for a future Metro corridor. On either side, there will be two service roads of 9 metres each (designed as two lanes-plus-one lane for cycling), along with 3-metre pavements.

Pic for representation

Highlighting the land acquisition hurdles, which delayed the project for years, Atheeq stated that it would now be addressed with five options for landowners. The five options include cash compensation, Transferable Development Rights (TDR), enhanced Floor Area Ratio (FAR), developed land in residential layouts, or commercial land along the corridor. Special Land Acquisition Officers (SLAOs) have been directed to collect landowners' preferences and finalise awards.

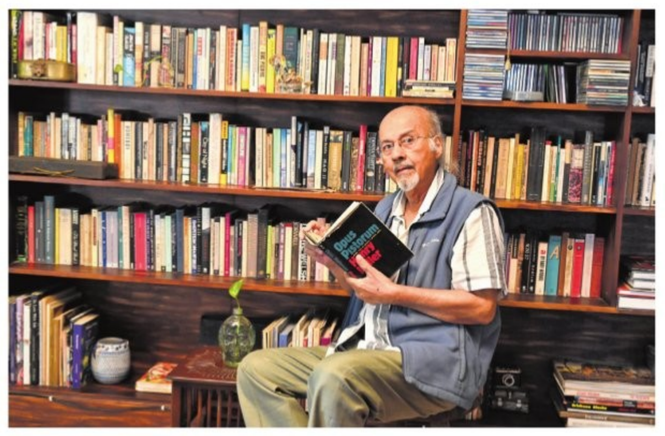
The alignment begins in the west at Bangalore International Exhibition Centre (BIEC) on Tumakuru Road (NH-4), travels through Ballari Road beyond Yelahanka, and then connects to Old Madras Road and Electronics City, to finally join the NICE Road at Hosur Road junction, integrating both northwest and northeast Bengaluru into the growth corridor.

Each side of the expressway will include a 9-metre service road with a 1-metre pavement, cycle track, and utility ducts, enhancing last-mile connectivity. The BBC will also integrate seamlessly with NICE Road at Electronics City and Madavara (BIEC), with a spur road planned towards Major Arterial Road (MAR) for potential integration with PRR-2.

The proposals and changes made with the project are awaiting the state government's final approval. Once cleared, the project that was long seen as critical to easing Bengaluru's traffic gridlock will finally take off after decades of uncertainty.

TRIBUTES POUR IN

'HIS FEARLESS INTELLECT SHAPED PUBLIC DISCOURSE'



EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ Bengaluru

SENIOR dignitaries, ministers and leaders cutting across party lines condoled the death of veteran journalist, columnist and author TJS George.

Union minister and former CM HD Kumaraswamy stated: "Having held many important positions, including editor, editorial director and editorial adviser of national and international newspapers, he was truly a treasure trove of experience. I closely followed his 'Point of View' column in The New Indian Express. I was captivated by his writing talent after reading his work 'MS – A Life in Music', based on the life of music queen, Smt MS Subbulakshmi."

Deputy Chief Minister DK Shivakumar expressed deep sorrow over the passing of the veteran journalist. "TJS George was a towering figure in Indian journalism, whose fearless intellect and literary brilliance shaped public discourse over the last six decades. He was not just a journalist but a truth seeker, a conscience keeper, and chronicler of our times," the DCM said in a press statement. "His contributions to journalism were pioneering, and his columns marked by clarity, courage and socio-cultural insights. His writing style seamlessly blended journalistic rigour and literary elegance... His biographies of MS Subbulakshmi, Nargis, and others are well known. His book 'Askew' beautifully chronicled Bengaluru in the backdrop of bygone years, bringing out the deep nuances of our city. I offer my condolences to his family personally and on behalf of the government of Karnataka," he said.

Former CM and MP Basavaraj Bommai stated that the field of journalism has lost a senior mentor and guide, "TJS George, through his long-standing service in the Indian media, created a distinct mark for himself. As a columnist, he consistently analysed political events, keeping the political system alert and informed. For nearly 25 years, as a columnist, he raised his voice against social inequality and corruption through his writings. His passing represents a significant loss to Indian journalism."

BJP State President BY Vijayendra stated, "Deeply saddened by the passing of Padma Bhushan TJS George, a towering voice in Indian journalism. His incisive columns and fearless critique have enriched our public discourse."

Senior Congress leader Shashi Tharoor said George was a true giant of Indian journalism, his sharp wit and powerful 'Point of View' columns will be deeply missed. "His contributions to literature and fearless commentary leave an indelible mark. His books, including a memorable Treasury of Indian Quotations, will live long," he said.

Saddened by the passing of veteran journalist, editor & author T J S George. With his sharp pen and uncompromising voice, he enriched Indian journalism for over six decades. He was a true public intellectual who made readers think, question and engage. My heartfelt condolences to his family, colleagues and countless admirers domesticity

- Chief Minister Siddaramaiah

I held great regard for TJS. One day, when the then editor of The New Indian Express R Shankar told me that TJS had appreciated a write-up by me, published that week in TNIE, I was literally floating in the air the entire day! His column 'Point of View' in TNIE was something everybody looked forward to, including bigwigs like SM Krishna and J Jayalalithaa. An incident I remember clearly is when he had written about Bengaluru, and Jayalalithaa, who happened to be here that day, liked his column so much that she wrote a highly appreciating letter to him. The last time I met him was at the Press Club elections a few years ago, and we had a good time joking. I was keen about translating his book on MS, but by the time I asked him somebody else had obtained the permission, and he said, "you must be quick Prathibha". With his passing on, an era of "star" journalists has come to an end. Very sad.

- Prathibha Nandakumar, writer and journalist

TJS George was a trailblazing journalist, known for his fearless pursuit of truth and his unwavering commitment to professional ethics. He defined the profession and always encouraged young journalists. He was perhaps the last few of India's legacy of true and bold journalists.

- Ayesha Khanum, Chairperson, Karnataka Media Academy

'I lost a great guru who guided my literary journey'

Renowned author and Rajya Sabha member Sudha Murty expressed deep sorrow at the demise of veteran journalist and writer TJS George, recalling his pivotal role in shaping her literary journey. "I'm extremely sad to know the demise of TJS George. I owe a lot to him," she said. "I was a Kannada writer, and one day he called me and told me, you should write in English. He told me, you are a storyteller, language is a vehicle." Sudha noted that George's encouragement pushed her to write in English. "I started writing in English. First in The New Indian Express, and later in other papers. Ultimately, I wrote my first book 'Wise and Otherwise', for which he wrote the Foreword. That's the only book I have with a Foreword, and that's by TJS George." She added: "I dedicated a book to him, 'Three Thousand Stitches', and he did come for the book release function... I feel very sorry that I lost a great guru, who guided me in my literary journey. The loss is great, but I only pray, may his soul rest in peace."

'Rakshit went out of comfort zone for 777 Charlie'

OTHER winners included Ravi Santehaklu (Best Art Direction – Bhajarangi 2), Nagarjuna Sharma (Best Lyricist – "Madilinalli Kadalinashtu Harigiliddaru..." from 777 Charlie), Aneesh Keshava Rao (Best Male Playback Singer – Sri Jagannatha Dasaru), and Sahana M Bharadwaj (Best Female Playback Singer – Dandi).

The jury special awards went to 'Bhairavi', Yogi G Raj (Costume Design - Bhajarangi 2), and Shivakumar (Make-up for Thaayi Kasthur Gandhi). The Best Production Manager award was given to Shivakumar S (Shivarjuna) for 'Pogaru'.

Kiranraj K, director of 777 Charlie, said, "777 Charlie winning four State Awards — Best Actor, Best Editing, Best Lyricist and Best Film — feels very special. I am especially happy that the hardwork of Rakshit, our editor, and our lyricist have been recognised. Honestly, I had expected Rakshit to win Best Actor at the National level too. He trained for almost a year with the dog and gave nearly 70 takes patiently to match Charlie's comfort. He even went through discomfort, like applying fish oil on his face or holding biscuits, just to get Charlie's attention. He stepped out of his comfort zone completely for this role, and that is why this recognition means so much to us."

Actress Archana Jois said, "My role in the film 'Mute' explores the relationship between a human and a dog. I play a divorced woman, and the story shows how her life changes when a dog comes into it, how she grows emotionally, and begins to heal... Receiving this State Award for the first time feels very special."

Edu a weapon to change world: Guv

ENS @ Bengaluru

"WE are noticing positive growth in women's education. Earlier, in some areas, female student ratio was around 50%. Today, in certain disciplines, it has risen to 70-75%, which is encouraging. However, family and social barriers still cause disruptive effects in their education," said Higher Education Minister Dr MC Sudhakar.

Speaking at the second and third convocations of Maharani Cluster University at Jnana Jyothi Auditorium on the Bengaluru City University campus on Friday, he added, "The state government, through some policies, are extending assistance schemes for girl students."

Governor Thaawarchand Gehlot stressed that education is the most powerful weapon to change the world, and when women are empowered through it, it lays the foundation for a progressive society and a strong nation. In the 2023-24 academic year, 1,346 students received undergraduate degrees, while 481 received postgraduate degrees. At the UG level, 28 students secured ranks and six gold medals, while in PG, 23 ranks and 18 gold medals were awarded. In the 2024-25 academic year, 1,209 students received UG degrees and 537 received PG degrees. At the UG level, 30 ranks and 10 gold medals were awarded, while at the PG level, 26 ranks and 18 gold medals were presented.

THE GBA chief commissioner directed additional commissioners, joint commissioners, and deputy commissioners to actively participate. "The government has issued orders appointing a senior KAS officer as nodal officer for each Assembly constituency. Accordingly, 34 KAS officers are will ensure smooth conduct of the survey and maintain coordination between the surveyors and the government. One Group-A officer has been appointed as ward supervisor for each ward, and will oversee the entire survey of that ward. Similarly, deployment of one surveyor for 300 houses each has been decided and a deputy supervisor has been appointed to supervise the work of every 15-20 surveyors," he added.

Horoscopes By Holiday

HOLIDAY MATHIS

04th October : In the Mirror of Libra Season Mirrors are a relatively new invention. For tens of thousands of years of human history, the only reflection humans knew of themselves was in water. As for animals, great apes, dolphins, elephants and magpies can recognize themselves while most animals think the one in the mirror is another creature entirely. And what about you? Who do you see in there?

ARIES (Mar 21 - Apr. 20)
In the art gallery of your life, you're too close to the picture, caught in the details, so close that you can only see brushstrokes, not the whole painting. Step back. Distance gives you clarity. The bigger picture comes into focus.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 - May 20)
While the whirring mind calculates the benefits and detriments as seen in one moment by one person, the heart connects with a larger picture and comes up with answers to serve the collective. Keep following.

GEMINI (May 21 - June 21)
Your brand of openness is what people need most right now, more than clever phrasing or polished responses. Your sincerity is the message, and it carries farther than any perfect wording could.

CANCER (June 22 - July 22)
You know what you want, and now you'll blend those wishes with ways that others can join in. The best plan will be flexible and inclusive. You'll end up with something more beautiful and sustainable than the original vision.

LEO (July 23 - Aug. 22)
We give the world stories that are often quite different from the objective reality of a situation, but that doesn't necessarily make them untrue. Your feelings, perceptions and subjective reality matter, too. The performance of life is part of life, too.

VIRGO (Aug. 23 - Sept. 22)
Yes, you're the sovereign of details. But occasionally, your mind could use a break from the vigilance. Blow out the picture until it all goes a little fuzzy and let that be the beauty you live in.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 - Oct. 23)
Sometimes you really do have to find your way through a situation, but today, it's more like you're remembering as though you've done it already. With your interesting lens and creativity unbound, you'll solve problems that vex others.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24 - Nov. 21)
Not all pressure stresses you out. Today's brand is exhilarating. It's just the sort of challenge that opens deeper resources. The energy, creativity, optimism and talent are all inside you, just waiting for activation.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 - Dec. 21)
It keeps coming up for you: Doubt, when balanced with reflection, is part of wisdom. Unwavering confidence is a red flag signaling ego inflation. Fluctuations in self-concept are not signs of weakness, but of awareness.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 - Jan. 19)
Acceptance is your foundation. Everything good builds on the bedrock of acceptance. From there, you will create solutions, systems or even beauty (SET ITAL) around (END ITAL) the reality, instead of exhausting yourself by resisting the truth of (SET ITAL) what is. (END ITAL)

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20 - Feb. 18)
You're like a child today in that you can spot a phony from a mile away. It's just a hunch, but hunches are often the aggregate of a hundred subtle hints, invisible to the conscious mind. Also, the less you know about a person, the more spot-on your initial impressions will be.

PISCES (Feb. 19 - Mar 20)
Good friends give back. Excellent friends don't just give back; they cater the gift to the other person's preferences, even preferences they don't personally share. Your brand of generosity will be truly selfless and astute.

Apathy continues: Bad road kills 2 sisters in Hoskote

The road is filled with jelly stones & potholes

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@Bengaluru

CLOSE on the heels of the death of a 22-year-old student, Dhanushree, due to the poorly maintained road in Avalahalli police station limits, yet another similar incident was reported on Friday in the Hoskote traffic police station limits, where two sisters died.

The deceased are Shyla, 25, and her sister Shwetha, 22. Both were returning to their house at Attivatta in Hoskote from the Kaiwara temple on Friday around 1.45 pm. While riding on the Hoskote-Chintamani State Highway, the two-wheeler skidded on a road which was scattered with jelly stones, near the Shivanapura Cross. The stretch is also reportedly filled with potholes. The sisters who came under the wheels of a canter vehicle that was coming from behind died on the spot. A case has been registered against the driver.

Shyla was working as a nurse while Shwetha was a nursing student. The bodies have been handed over to the family members in the evening after the postmortem at the Hoskote Government Hospital.

Locals blamed the poorly maintained road for the incident. Despite the road work going on, no service road was made for the safety of motorists. The gravel that had been carelessly scattered on the road was the reason for the vehicles skidding. Stringent action should be taken against the concerned authorities and also the contractor to whom the work has been allotted," locals said.

It may be recalled that Dhanushree, a resident of Hoskote, fell from her scooter while trying to avoid loose gravel on a poorly maintained road near Budigere Cross on Monday morning. The truck driver, Y Jayaruddin Mandal, a resident of Mandur on the outskirts of the city and a native of West Bengal, was arrested on Wednesday.

Woman accuses husband of sharing private videos with his friends

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ Bengaluru:

PUTTENAHALLI police registered a case against a married man who works as an assistant manager in a reputed IT firm, for forcing his wife to sleep with his friends who are abroad. The accused, Syed Inamul Haq, is alleged to have secretly installed a camera in the bedroom, recorded private moments with his wife and shared the videos with his friends.

The couple got married in December last year. After the wedding, the woman found out that she was Haq's second wife, and he had relationships with a number of other women.

The woman filed a complaint against Haq, accusing him of constant physical and mental torture, and multiple affairs. She also accused her in-laws of harassing her.

Speaking to the media on Friday, she stated that they got married on December 15, 2024, and it was an arranged alliance. "My husband installed cameras and recorded our private moments, and has shared them with his friends. I saw him when he was sharing our videos. There was also constant dowry harassment from him. Five months after our wedding, I was forced to move out of the house. I started staying at Vinayaka Nagar in JP Nagar from June 1, and my husband has troubled me even here. He is threatening to make the videos public if I disclose this to anyone," the complainant added.

Puttenahalli police registered a case and are on the lookout for the accused.

Man held for killing brother, parents held for trying to destroy evidence

Bengaluru: A 30-year-old man along with his aged parents were arrested by the Cottonpet police on charges of murder and attempting to destroy evidence. While the man, identified as Shiva, was arrested on charges of killing his 28-year-old younger brother Vijay alias Kutty, the couple— Elumalai, 65, and Annapoorneshwari, 60— was arrested for admitting the victim to a hospital with false information. Vijay, who worked as a housekeeping staff in a railway station, succumbed during treatment. Shiva, an autorickshaw driver, quarrelled with his other brother over a financial matter. Vijay, who witnessed the fight, attacked Shiva. Later, when all the brothers were consuming alcohol, Shiva attacked Vijay with an iron spanner. ENS

Mother kills daughter, dies by suicide in Shivamogga

Shivamogga: A 38-year-old woman allegedly murdered her 12-year-old daughter and died by suicide at their home at the nursing quarters of McGann Teaching Hospital in Shivamogga on Friday. SP, G K Mithun Kumar said that the mother, Shruthi and Poorvika were killed here, gruesomely. The girl was hit by a sharp weapon on her head. Ramanna, husband of Shruthi, works as a lab technician at McGann Teaching District Hospital. Two cases were registered in this regard. The SP said that Ramanna was on night duty on Thursday, and when he arrived home on Friday morning, it was locked from the inside. As there was no response, with the help of neighbours, they broke the door and found the two dead. ENS

Guru Basavanna Ratha procession in city today

Swamijies of various Mutts attend a press meet at Palace grounds in Bengaluru on Friday | NAGARAJA GADEKAL

A Guru Basavanna Ratha Yatra will be held in Bengaluru on Saturday, to mobilise the Lingayat community. The procession will be led by a chariot, and followed by over 500 two-wheelers through the city streets.

The rally will begin after 7:55am when the ratha enters from Tumakuru Road, and go towards Yeshwanthpur, where it will be welcomed near the Mysuru Soap Factory. The proccession will then head into Rajajinagar, where Dr Gangaji Mataji and her disciples will perform prayers at the Basavanna statue in Basavanna Mantapa.

The ratha will continue through Basaveshwaranagar and Vijayanagar, where it will be welcomed by leaders of Basava organisations, and later through Chamarajpet and Jayanagar. The journey will culminate at Basavaveshwara Circle, where members of the Basava Samithi will hold a meeting, and bring together voices of the community.

Chandramouli N Lingayat, one of the organisers, told TNIE, "We had successful Basava Abhiyans in 30 districts and as a conclusion, we will have the Samaropa Samarambha on October 5, in which CM Siddaramaiah and other ministers will participate. The Guru Basavanna Ratha Yatra in which bike riders will participate will be the run-up to the Samaropa Samarambha." He said they held a meeting on Friday evening with Police Commissioner Seemanth Kumar Singh and senior officers to finalise a traffic plan so that no one is inconvenienced when lakhs of people reach Palace Grounds.

TASL to set up 1st pvt chopper assembly to build H125

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ Bengaluru

TATA Advanced Systems Limited (TASL) will set up India's first private-sector helicopter Final Assembly Line to build Airbus H125 helicopters at Vemagal in Kolar district. The delivery of the helicopter is expected in early 2027. It will be available for export in the South Asian region.

The H125 is the world's best-selling single-engine helicopter that outclasses other helicopters in its category. The chopper has accumulated more than 40 million flight hours worldwide. It can be missioned for aerial work, firefighting, law enforcement, rescue, air ambulance, passenger transport, and many others. The H125 helicopter will help develop new civil and para-public market segments and also meet the Indian armed forces' requirement for a light multi-role helicopter, especially on the icy heights of the country's Himalayan frontiers. "Plans include a military version, the H125M, to be offered out of this Indian factory with high levels of indigenised components and technologies," stated Airbus and TASL in a release.

"India is an ideal helicopter country. A 'Made in India' helicopter will help develop this market and position helicopters as an essential tool for nation-building. We are extremely glad to be adding this new chapter to our multi-faceted relationship with our trusted partners Tata," said president and managing director, Airbus India and South Asia, Jürgen Westermeier.

"TASL is proud to be the first private sector company in India to build helicopters," said CEO and MD, Tata Advanced Systems Limited, Sukaran Singh.

Tata Advanced Systems' entry into helicopter manufacturing is a strategic extension of its capabilities, built on years of expertise in aerospace and defence technologies. The H125 FAL is the second Airbus aircraft assembly plant TASL is building in India, after the C295 military aircraft manufacturing facility in Vadodara, Gujarat.

Centre rationalised GST to take advantage in Bihar polls, says CM

Says will consider approaching court if deemed necessary to secure state's rightful share

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ Mysuru

KARNATAKA Chief Minister Siddaramaiah has accused the Union Government of rationalising GST with an eye on the upcoming Bihar Assembly elections, revealing that Karnataka would incur a staggering loss of Rs 15,000 crore.

He pointed out that the BJP-led NDA government, which instituted GST in 2017 and has levied exorbitant taxes on the people over the past eight years, is now celebrating GST Utsav, asserting that they have diminished the tax burden. "Will the Centre refund the taxes collected over the past eight years?" the CM asked.

Speaking to the media in Mysuru, Siddaramaiah lamented that it is regrettable for the Centre to praise itself for reducing a tax it originally imposed. While he welcomed the rationalisation of GST, which could potentially offset the Rs 15,000 crore loss, he insisted that the state would rise to the challenge of mobilising resources to mitigate the fiscal impact resulting from this GST adjustment. Siddaramaiah also noted that the Centre has allocated a mere Rs 3,200 crore grant to Karnataka, contrasting this with the 17% grant awarded to Uttar Pradesh, while Karnataka has received only 3.5%. The CM further accused the Centre of denying the state a grant amounting to Rs 17,000 crore. He slammed the Union Finance Minister for revoking special grants set aside for Karnataka in the 15th Finance Commission, besides the Rs 3,000 crore pledged for tank development, Rs 3,000 crore for the outer ring road, and Rs 5,000 crore for Upper Badra project.

When questioned about the possibility of pursuing legal action against the Centre for the state's rightful share, he retorted that the state would consider approaching the court if deemed necessary. He also reproached BJP MPs from Karnataka for their failure to push for the state's interests, instead preoccupying themselves with praising the PM.

In response to inquiries regarding the socio-economic survey conducted in the state, Siddaramaiah affirmed that 80 lakh families, covering 3 crore people, have already been included. He expressed confidence that the survey would conclude within the next four days. The CM also indicated that decisions regarding the extension of deadlines would hinge on the progress of the survey report. He took the opportunity to clarify that the survey is not an effort to fragment castes or Hindus, but rather a socio-economic assessment to gauge the advancement and development of all societal segments since Independence.

He further pointed out that people had voluntarily identified themselves as Brahmin Christian, Vokkaliga Christian, Kuruba, and Dalit Christian during the survey executed by the Kantharaj Commission, which was not established by the government. He insisted that the commission has since excluded these identities from the caste list.

Siddaramaiah also accused the BJP of misleading the public by alleging that the saffron party is sowing division among people.He refuted the claims made by LoP in Assembly R Ashoka over the neglect of farmers by the government. He insisted that Ashok's allegations are politically motivated and echo the directives of the RSS.

DEVE GOWDA TO SURVEY FLOOD-HIT DISTRICTS

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ Bengaluru

FORMER Prime Minister and Rajya Sabha member HD Deve Gowda said he will carry out a ground survey of the six flood-affected districts in the next few days. "The CM (Siddaramaiah) carried out an aerial survey a couple of days ago and announced some relief to the affected farmers. I don't know to what extent the district ministers and deputy commissioners have reached out to the people. I will fly to Kalaburagi and travel by road to visit the distressed people. I will speak only after assessing the situation," Gowda told the media.

He said he would write to PM Narendra Modi, to demand compensation for farmers whose crops were destroyed. "I don't want to politicise the issue, as Modi is busy with national issues. It is the responsibility of the state government to take measures to respond to people in distress. Kumaraswamy has already written to him. If necessary, I will meet him in Delhi," he replied to an allegation that the Centre had given compensation to other states, leaving out Karnataka. Gowda alleged there was a difference of opinion among Congress legislators over the state's financial situation; some say there is money and others say the coffers have run dry because of the guarantee schemes, and because of them, the government depends on the Centre for flood relief.

BJP-JDS alliance in local body polls

Gowda said his party's alliance with the BJP will continue in all future elections, including local bodies ZP/TP and the Greater Bengaluru Authority (GBA), and assembly polls in Karnataka. He asserted that nobody can shake his relationship with PM Modi. "There is no threat to the BJP-JDS alliance as it will not break for any reason, whether it's for polls to ZP/TPs, corporations and assembly. Nobody can change the relationship between me and Modi. Give a single instance of me speaking lightly against him for ten years," he said.

The JDS will hold a women's rally at Palace Grounds on October 12, with over 50,000 women workers participating. The party aims to win at least 50 seats in corporation polls. "We have to prove our strength, if you have financial constraints, let me know as I will shoulder the entire responsibility, but don't step back," he gave a call to women office-bearers.

Allaying concerns over the health of his son and Union minister HD Kumaraswamy, Gowda said he was doing fine and can carry out the party's organisational work.

'Designed conspiracy': Surjewala hits out at BJP over 'vote chori'

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ Bengaluru

AICC General Secretary and Karnataka in-charge Randeep Singh Surjewala on Friday lashed out at BJP, alleging that the party hatched a "designed conspiracy" to steal people's mandate through "Vote Chori" (vote theft). Terming it an "attack on the Constitution and democracy," the Congress leader alleged that vote theft is not just restricted to Mahadevapura or Aland Assembly constituencies but also in Maharashtra, whose record was released by Rahul Gandhi.

"Vote Chori is taking place in every Assembly and Lok Sabha polls in the country. It is stealing people's mandate... it is a designed attack on our Constitution and democracy. The sinister forces of the BJP are taking away your right to elect a person of your choice," Surjewala said on the sidelines of a signature campaign in the Pulikeshinagar Assembly constituency.

"Our Constitution says one person, one vote. Today, vote-stealing is going beyond what the Constitution says. Everyone should come together and protect our sacred constitution. We all need to bring about a new wave of revolution and change in this country. Congress leaders and workers should unite as many people as possible in every nook and corner and form a public opinion against vote-stealing. They should inspire people to protect their rights," Surjewala said.

It is not a mere theft of votes but the theft of the rights of the common people, he said.

He drew parallels between the 'Vote Chori' campaign by the Congress and that of the freedom fighters of the country. He termed the campaign launched under the leadership of AICC president Mallikarjun Kharge and Leader of Opposition in Lok Sabha Rahul Gandhi as not a political one but a people's struggle to protect the Constitution and the democracy.

Forest, health, education dept staffers roped in for caste census, errant officers to face action

BOSKY KHANNA @ Bengaluru

THE Karnataka government has roped in frontline staffers from the forest, health and education departments to expedite the ongoing Socio-Educational Survey, otherwise known as the caste census.

Using data of government staffers available on the Human Resource Management System (HRMS) portal, the office of the Greater Bengaluru Authority (GBA) sent messages and e-mails to staffers individually, ordering them to participate in training on October 3, and a census exercise from October 4, failing which an FIR will be registered against them under Section 223 of the BNS. It warned that disciplinary action will be taken and they will be terminated from service. The order stated that no exemption is valid unless issued in writing by the GBA Chief Commissioner.

This has raised concern among government officials. A senior official said that with all permanent staffers roped in for the census, government work will now be done by contract employees.

A senior forest department official said, "Forest staffers are exempted from such duties, including election duty. We are writing to the GBA Commissioner, district commissioners, and chief secretary, pointing out that if there is man-animal conflict or any untoward incident, then we are not responsible."

The official added that all permanent staffers, including guards, watchers, range forest officers (RFO), deputy RFO, anti-poaching teams, and leopard and elephant task force staffers have been roped in for the census exercise.

A forest department staffer said, "When we tried to reason, the GBA team advised us to complete census duty and then do department duties. But forest duty is not like a desk job. It is round-the-clock ground work, without timings."

Similar concern was raised by health department officials, where staffers, including laboratory technicians, pharmacists, clerical and technical staff have been roped in for the census. "Government hospitals are already complaining of problems, and with staffers gone, this will only get aggravated in the coming days. A list of staffers is being prepared, and will be handed over to the chief secretary for exemption," a senior health official said.

However, education department officials expressed helplessness. The officials pointed to a shortage of teachers and lecturers, and that the government is not paying attention to the plight of guest teachers. Now, with census duty and schools reopening after Dasara holidays, matters will only get worse.

"Holidays were cancelled for teachers. To ensure education is not affected, we had requested that only primary school teachers be roped in. But middle and high school teachers are also on census duty. For all government work, anganwadi workers and teachers are used. These two sections are very important in education," said a senior education department official.

GBA Chief Commissioner Maheshwar Rao said government orders were clear on involving government employees. At least 20,000 staffers are needed to complete the exercise in two weeks, and if government staffers are involved, it ensures credibility.

Siddu will step down by year-end, claims Ashoka

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ Belagavi

AMID swirling speculation within the Congress over a change of guard in Karnataka, Leader of Opposition in Assembly R Ashoka on Friday asserted Chief Minister Siddaramaiah would be forced to relinquish the post by November or December under an internal pact.

Ashoka recalled the recent statement of a noted Congress leader that a "political revolution" will take place during the fag end of this year which will end with the exit of Siddaramaiah from the top post.

Addressing reporters in Belagavi, Ashoka claimed the agreement between Siddaramaiah and Deputy CM DK Shivakumar on sharing the CM's chair was "100% true." "But neither Siddaramaiah is ready to step down nor Shivakumar ready to give up his ambition. This tug-of-war has paralysed governance in the state," the BJP leader said.

Ashoka said that several Congress leaders themselves were asking Siddaramaiah about the timing of his exit. "For two-and-a-half years, stories have floated on who will succeed Siddaramaiah — Shivakumar, Parameshwara or Satish Jarkiholi. Meanwhile, the state has been badly neglected," Ashoka said.

Citing the recent letter from the Contractors' Association, Ashoka alleged that the Congress government was "twice as corrupt as the previous BJP government," accusing it of collecting up to 80% commission.

Min's grandson in Dasara parade; Oppn furious, Congress too objects

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ Mysuru

A controversy has erupted following the appearance of the grandchild of Mysuru district in-charge Minister and Social Welfare Minister Dr HC Mahadevappa, who was seen accompanying CM Siddaramaiah, Deputy CM DK Shivakumar, and other cabinet ministers during the illustrious Dasara parade preceding the start of Jamboo Savari.

The Vijayadashami procession, traditionally reserved for dignitaries occupying constitutional positions, showcased an atypical scene when the young boy, donning black sunglasses, was prominently positioned in the open vehicle alongside top state leaders. His presence at a governmental event swiftly gained traction on social media, igniting a political storm.

The Opposition has accused the Congress of transforming state events into familial affairs. BJP leaders are set to challenge the appropriateness of permitting relatives of ministers to share the spotlight with the highest elected officials during an official cultural celebration.

Adding further weight to the controversy is the reaction from within the Congress itself. Party insiders have revealed that the high command has expressed dissatisfaction and sought clarification from the leadership. The central leadership is reportedly demanding an explanation regarding how a family member was permitted to take part in the parade.

Mahadevappa is yet to comment on the matter, while social media is inundated with videos depicting people possessing passes grappling to gain entry to the palace for Jamboo Savari.

Khadi reimagined: Modern, mindful and made in Karnataka

KHADI in Karnataka is stepping beyond its traditional image of sarees and panchas. The Karnataka State Khadi and Village Industries Board is now giving khadi a contemporary edge, creating trendy designs for youth, women and children, while also charting a roadmap for business expansion. Inspired by Gandhiji's vision, the Board has been supporting artisans for over seven decades by promoting indigenous products.

Modernisation and artisan training

Khadi had long been confined to political leaders and Gandhian enthusiasts. Today, efforts are being made to position it as an everyday choice for people of all ages. Known for its use of natural dyes and eco-friendly processes, khadi is both sustainable and suitable for all seasons. On the directions of the Government of Karnataka (GoK), preparations are under way for a Karnataka Khadi Exhibition at Dasara exhibition pavilion, modelled as part of Khadi India movement, launched by the GoK.

While artisans continue to use spinning wheels and handlooms, the Board plans to adopt state-of-the-art machinery, as done in Gujarat and West Bengal. Three leading engineering colleges — Silver Jubilee Chamarajendra College of Technology (Bengaluru), Bapuji Institute of Technology (Davanagere) and Hulakoti Patil Institute of Technology (Gadag) — have been roped in to research and recommend technology upgrades.

SHALINI RAJNEESH
Chief Secretary, Govt of Karnataka

A training programme is also being developed to extract organic dyes from fruits and vegetables. The first batch of 50 artisans and board employees will travel to Gujarat in October to learn about yarn extraction, modern machinery, and value addition techniques.

Market expansion

Currently, khadi products such as sarees, shirts, lungis and handkerchiefs are available, but lack wider market reach. To address this, two to three Bengaluru-based textile companies have been entrusted with creating new-age khadi fashion models like blazers, jackets and trousers. NIFT Bengaluru has collaborated in this noble effort. "I have been in the textile sector for two years. Working with the Board, we are developing innovative designs using Karnataka khadi to strengthen its global presence. The idea is to boost khadi's appeal and ensure artisans' benefit from growing demand," said Rajini Rekha, proprietrix, Reves La Veste, from Bengaluru.

While 14,000 artisans are engaged in Karnataka, the current turnover is ₹250 crore from 175 Khadi & Village Industries institutions active in the state. The Board is targeting turnover growth from the current ₹250 crore to ₹1,000 crore initially, with a long-term goal of ₹3,000 crore, ensuring artisans' share the benefits.

Under the Karnataka Khadi Policy, students and government employees may soon be encouraged to wear khadi at least once a week. "Our aim is to take Karnataka khadi to every age group, modernize production and expand markets. This will empower artisans and build khadi as a strong state brand," said DB Natesh, executive officer, Karnataka State Khadi and Village Industries Board. "We have taken up this programme as per the direction of Chief Minister Siddaramaiah, to mark 100 years of Mahatma Gandhi's visit to Karnataka."

Tirupati cops hold checks after bomb scare

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@Tirupati

TIRUPATI police carried out extensive anti-sabotage checks across the city and at major pilgrim areas on Friday morning following threatening emails allegedly sent by terrorist groups.

A high alert was declared, and bomb disposal squads were deployed immediately. Speaking to TNIE, Special Branch DSP Venkata Narayana said that, on the directions of Tirupati SP L Subba Rayudu, bomb disposal teams inspected several sensitive locations. He clarified that reports claiming Tirupati Police had received hoax bomb threat emails in the name of ISI and former LTTE militants were incorrect, noting that those emails had actually been received by Tamil Nadu Police a day earlier. The alleged threats suggested the use of RDX explosives in four areas of Tirupati.

Tirupati police have previously received similar emails from unidentified sources on two occasions. Intelligence agencies continue to investigate the recurring threats, and security measures remain in place to safeguard the city and its pilgrims.

HC forms SIT, slams Vijay for poor leadership

Stalin criticises BJP for capitalising on tragedy

R SIVAKUMAR @Chennai

EXPRESSING 'agony' and 'anguish' over the death of 41 people during the September 27 roadshow of TVK leader Vijay at Velusamypuram in Karur and the failure of the state government in taking stringent action against those responsible for the tragedy, the Madras High Court on Friday constituted a special investigation team (SIT) to probe the tragic incident. North Zone Inspector General (IG) of Police Asra Garg will head the SIT which was ordered to commence the investigations forthwith.

The court also strongly condemned actor Vijay and TVK for violations during the event and the manner in which they reacted post the event. "The leader (Vijay) has vanished and disappeared from the place of occurrence. Unfortunate to record that such a leadership is of poor quality," Justice N Senthilkumar said. He "strongly condemned" TVK for flouting the conditions set for conducting the event.

The principal bench of the HC here also dismissed a BJP leader's plea seeking a CBI probe into the incident, and directed her to approach the Madurai bench. The Madurai bench dismissed the anticipatory bail pleas of TVK state general secretary Bussy N Anand and deputy general secretary CTR Nirmal Kumar, who have been named in the FIR in connection with the incident.

Chief Minister M K Stalin accused the BJP and the government led by it at the Centre, of "showing no genuine concern" over the tragic stampede, and said the saffron party wanted to "capitalise" on the incident in view of next year's Assembly election.

THE controversy over the gold-plated panels of the Sabarimala Lord Ayyappa temple is deepening, putting the Travancore Devaswom Board (TDB) on the defensive. The latest twist came with the recovery of documents by the board's vigilance wing regarding the gold plating of the sanctum in 1998.

According to the records, 30.3 kg of gold and 1,900 kg of copper were used for the gold-plating of the sanctum, a project sponsored by businessman Vijay Mallya. These same panels were sent for maintenance to Chennai in 2019 under the sponsorship of priest-turned-businessman Unnikrishnan Potty, the central figure in the present controversy.

However, the Devaswom records of the 2019 maintenance state that only copper panels were sent for repair. Another startling revelation by the vigilance team was that the panels remained in Potty's possession for 39 days after their formal handover by the TDB. While the TDB has placed the blame squarely on Potty, the episode has also exposed serious lapses on the part of the board. Officials entrusted the valuable temple property to the new sponsor but failed to monitor the repair activities properly. The public display and poojas conducted by Potty are clear violations of temple rules and customs.

Directive issued to preserve movie tickets

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ Bengaluru

THE Karnataka government has appealed to the public to preserve the tickets obtained physically or electronically for the movie, and the owners of the multiplex theatres should be required to maintain complete records of all cinema ticket sales. The State Government issued this directive in view of a series of directives issued by a vacation division bench of the High Court recently, after hearing the appeal filed by Karnataka State Film Chamber of Commerce and others against the stay granted by a single judge to the Rs 200 cap fixed by the State Government for movie tickets.

The government stated that consumers have to retain the movie tickets so that they can claim a refund of the money paid over and above Rs 200 ceiling if the petitions filed by the Multiplexes Association of India and others questioning the ceiling fixed by the government are dismissed by the HC.

Tiger carcass found in MM Hills, probe on

BOSKY KHANNA @Bengaluru

THE forest officials discovered the carcass of a tiger in Malai Mahadeshwara Hills (MM Hills) Wildlife Sanctuary on Thursday. The news was circulated on Friday.

"Things do not seem to be going right in MM Hills. If need be, a team will be sent to investigate not just the tiger death, but also the entire operations in MM Hills," said a senior Ministry of Environment, Forests and Climate Change official. The National Tiger Conservation Authority (NTCA) also showed concern over the incident.

Two sniffer dogs, specially trained in wildlife crimes, from Bandipur Tiger Reserve were sent. "The patrolling team teams found a slip, and the house of one of the accused was searched. However, the house remains vacant and closed. The accused is absconding," said a senior investigating official.

"The rest of the body parts were found in the vicinity. The accused must have been trying to bury them separately." Principal Chief Conservator of Forests, Wildlife, PC Rai said, the body was reconstructed and all parts were found. It was a large male tiger aged around 12 years with withering canines and was feeding on cattle for survival. No bullet injuries were found, and metal detectors were also used, but nothing was found. It seems to be a case of poisoning; final postmortem and FSL reports are awaited," he added.

Taking note of the incident, Forest, Environment, and Ecology Department Minister Eshwar B Khandre said the incident happened on the first day of the 71st wildlife week celebrations in Karnataka. He issued orders for the constitution of a special investigating committee headed by the principal chief conservator of forests, Smita Bijoor. He also ordered the forest officials to submit a report within eight days and take action against the officials who have shown negligence of duty. Khandre also sought a report of the poaching incidents and the action taken over the last three years.

Another official said that concerns started to rise after cattle grazing from Tamil Nadu was stopped and the camps were cleared. This is the second tiger death in the MM Hills in the last couple of months. On July 3, 2020, a tigress and her four cubs were poisoned to death.

India Gears Up for Flying Cars in Emergency Medical Evacuation: Aeromed and Sarla Aviation Forge Landmark Pact

India is preparing to usher in a next-generation medical evacuation ecosystem with Vertical Take-Off and Landing (VTOL) air ambulances. In a breakthrough for national healthcare, Aeromed International Rescue Services and Sarla Aviation have signed a Memorandum of Understanding (MoU) to introduce drone-like VTOL aircraft designed to transform emergency medical transport during the crucial "golden hour."

The agreement was signed by Adrian Schmidt, Chief Executive and Co-founder of Sarla Aviation, and Shaju Kumar KV, Director and Co-founder of Aeromed Air Ambulance. The partnership aims to revolutionise India's emergency response system, including life-saving organ transport during critical time windows.

The MoU outlines plans to integrate advanced air mobility into hospital emergency protocols, with rooftop and vertiport landing facilities, as well as patient-centric cabins fitted with ventilators, advanced medical equipment and seating for doctors and paramedics.

Amod Jaiswal, Founder and Managing Director of Aeromed Air Ambulance, said: "We are planning to connect all medical colleges and leading corporate hospitals in India with VTOL air ambulances, bringing futuristic technology into everyday emergency care."

Kumar added: "Through this partnership, we will deploy VTOL and Short Take-Off and Landing (STOL) aircraft capable of reaching patients anywhere in the country. Our vision is to bridge the healthcare gap by providing intensive-care-level evacuation across India."

Schmidt noted: "When every minute can mean the difference between life and death, mobility means everything. This partnership with Aeromed is about using VTOL technology to give people the most precious resource: time."

Focus on Bihar as Modi set to unveil ₹62K cr schemes

RAJESH KUMAR THAKUR @ New Delhi

AHEAD of the announcement of Bihar Legislative Assembly election dates by the Election Commission on Monday or Tuesday, Prime Minister Narendra Modi is set to launch several youth-focused initiatives, including schemes specifically for Bihar, worth ₹62,000 crore, on Saturday.

He will inaugurate the revamped Mukhyamantri Nishchay Swayam Sahayata Bhatta Yojana in Bihar, which will provide a monthly allowance of ₹1,000 for two years to nearly five lakh graduate youths. In a landmark step for skill development, Modi will also inaugurate the Jan Nayak Karpoori Thakur Skill University, aimed at promoting industry-oriented courses and vocational education.

On the educational infrastructure front, the Prime Minister will lay the foundation stone for new academic and research facilities in four universities—Patna University, Bhupendra Narayan Mandal University in Madhepura, Jai Prakash Vishwavidyalaya in Chapra, and Nalanda Open University in Patna—under the PM-USHA scheme. These projects, with a total allocation of ₹160 crore, are expected to benefit over 27,000 students by providing modern academic infrastructure, advanced laboratories, hostels, and multidisciplinary learning facilities.

4K govt job letters to be distributed in manpower push

Over 4,000 government appointment letters will be distributed, and ₹450 crore in scholarships will be released to 25 lakh students under the Mukhyamantri Balak/Balika Scholarship Scheme. With these initiatives, the BJP expects Bihar to become a hub for skilled manpower, supporting both regional and national development.

PM Modi will also dedicate the Bihta campus of NIT Patna to the nation. The campus now has the capacity to accommodate 6,500 students and includes a Regional Academic Centre for Space, established in collaboration with ISRO, as well as an Innovation and Incubation Centre, which has already supported nine start-ups.

In addition, the Prime Minister will felicitate 46 all-India toppers from Industrial Training Institutes under the Ministry of Skill Development and Entrepreneurship during the Kaushal Deekshant Samaroh, the fourth edition of the National Skill Convocation. He will also launch PM-SETU, a ₹60,000 crore initiative to upgrade 1,000 government ITIs nationwide, with special focus on it is in Patna and Darbhanga under PM-SETU.

Other initiatives include the inauguration of 1,200 Vocational Skill Labs in 400 Navodaya Vidyalayas and 200 Eklavya Model Residential Schools, the redesigned Bihar Student Credit Card Scheme offering interest-free loans up to ₹4 lakh, and the formal launch of the Bihar Yuva Ayog, a commission for youth aged 18-45.

Party's response on EC final voter list soon: Chakravarty

PREETHA NAIR @ New Delhi

DAYS after the Election Commission of India (EC) published the final voter list in poll-bound Bihar, Congress said that it will soon issue a detailed feedback as it involves an arduous effort to download over 90,000 PDFs of the list.

Praveen Chakravarty, chairman, AICC Data Analytics Department told this newspaper that the party will issue its response this week as its data analytics department and EAGLE, the committee set up to monitor polls, have been rigorously working on the data.

"It involves rigorous effort as the final voter list is available in PDF format for download, but it is provided as scanned images instead of machine-readable digital text. It runs into more than 90,000 pages. We have downloaded the PDFs and the rest of the work needs to be done," he said.

Oppn may move SC

CPI (ML) general secy Dipankar Bhattachrya said on Friday that the Opposition would move the SC if the EC failed to address alleged discrepancies in the final voter list.

The opposition parties, including Congress, were up in arms over the ECI's decision to replace the machine-readable draft voter lists with scanned image PDFs for the intensive revision exercise. The Congress has been demanding the voter list in machine-readable format, saying it will help it flag flaws. However, citing a 2019 Supreme Court judgment, CEC Gyanesh Kumar said that the voter list in machine-readable format cannot be shared with political parties as it can be edited and can lead to its misuse, he said.

In the final voter list, the total number of electors have come down by nearly 47 lakh to 7.42 crore from 7.89 crore before the special intensive review of electoral rolls.

Setback to JD(U), Nitish MLA quits to join Tejashwi

RAMASHANKAR & RAJESH KUMAR THAKUR @ Patna/New Delhi

JD(U) MLA Sanjeev Kumar on Friday resigned from Nitish Kumar's party and joined the RJD at a function in Bihar's Khagaria. Kumar, son of four-time MLA Ramanand Prasad Singh, was elected from Parbatta constituency in 2020.

Welcoming Sanjeev, RJD leader Tejashwi Yadav said his joining "will strengthen the party's poll prospects in Khagaria district as he belongs to a dominant and influential caste and a family that has been in politics for long enjoying a major caste clout in the area."

EC team in Patna today

A three-member EC team will arrive in Patna on Saturday for a two-day meet to review the preparedness for the Bihar Assembly polls due soon.

Sanjeev comes from dominant Bhumihar upper caste and his joining is set to change the caste equation in the region. Recently, he organised the Brahmrishi Swabhiman Yatra in Patna, which made an appeal for unity in the Bhumihar community. He was critical of the SIR of electoral rolls and had criticised the Election Commission and the NDA government for doing the exercise a few months before the election.

"Kumar's joining the RJD has given a bad message to JD(U). Caste dynamics in Khagaria will certainly tilt towards RJD," said an influential member of the Bhumihar community. "Bhumihars are seeing Tejashwi Yadav, separately from what his father had said and done earlier against the community," he said.

JD(U) national spokesperson Rajeev Ranjan Prasad said, "Sanjeev has been involved in anti-party activities. He was fearing disciplinary action. So, he left the party."

PM's brother visits Badrinath Dham

Pankaj Modi, younger brother of Prime Minister Narendra Modi, visited the revered Badrinath Dham on Friday to offer prayers. He was warmly welcomed by the Shri Badrinath Kedarnath Temple Committee (BKTC) on arrival. After participating in the temple rituals, he received 'prasad' from the authorities. Following his 'darshan', Modi and his accompanying guests called on BKTC Chairman Hemant Dwivedi for a courtesy visit. They discussed arrangements related to the ongoing pilgrimage season. The temple is preparing for its annual winter closure, with the portals scheduled to close on November 25 at 2.56 pm.

State BJP leaders see red over Rahul's remarks

The Uttarakhand BJP on Friday strongly criticised Rahul Gandhi over his recent statements in Colombia, accusing him of tarnishing India's image on foreign soil. State BJP president Mahendra Bhatt alleged that Gandhi repeatedly attacks Indian democracy whenever he speaks abroad. He called him the "Leader of Propaganda", twisting the LoP acronym. Bhatt claimed Gandhi often insults national institutions. He further said Gandhi is only focused on gaining power "by hook or by crook", despite repeated rejection. "Instead of learning from people's feedback and improving himself, he keeps challenging the entire democratic system," he added.

113-year-old Bageshwar bridge set for restoration

Bageshwar's historic 113-year-old suspension bridge over the Saryu river is finally set for restoration. A high-level meeting chaired by the Chief Secretary has approved ₹1.8 crore from the Missing Link Fund to repair the deteriorating structure. Built around 1912 during British rule, the 51-metre span bridge is a crucial link connecting the town with the Baghnath temple and the confluence of the Saryu and Gomti rivers. It serves thousands of commuters, pilgrims, and tourists daily. The revival of this old bridge is a long-awaited relief for locals. Once restored, it will continue serving as an essential route while preserving a key part of Bageshwar's heritage.

OBC minister in Gujarat cabinet named state BJP chief ahead of local polls

DILIP SINGH KSHATRIYA @ Ahmedabad

THE suspense over the Gujarat BJP's leadership has ended. Ahmedabad City MLA and Minister Jagdish Vishwakarma has been confirmed as the party's new state president, elected unopposed. With his rise, the BJP gains its third OBC state chief in 45 years, signalling a potential caste recalibration ahead of crucial local polls and a looming cabinet expansion.

Jagdish Vishwakarma, MLA from Ahmedabad's Nikol seat and Minister of State for Cooperation, has filed his nomination for State President and will be elected unopposed as the new state president of the party.

Union Minister Bhupender Yadav, who supervised the organisational process, announced the development on Friday after the nomination window closed with Vishwakarma as the sole contender. His candidature was backed unanimously by 292 state council members, cementing his elevation as a consensus choice within the party.

Vishwakarma's rise carries historical significance. After a 19-year gap, the Gujarat BJP has handed over its reins to an OBC

leader — only the third time in its 45-year history. The first was Kashiram Rana in the early 1990s, followed by Vajubhai Vala from 1996 to 1998 and again briefly in 2005–06. With Vishwakarma, the party returns to its experiment with backward-class leadership, underscoring the growing importance of caste equations in Gujarat's shifting political landscape.

However, his appointment is not just about representation — it is also about power geography. For the first time in decades, both the government and the party organisation are controlled by leaders from Ahmedabad city. Chief Minister Bhupendra Patel hails from Ghatlodia in the city's west, while Vishwakarma represents Nikol in the east.

Coop society in every panchayat by '29, says Shah

HARPREET BAJWA @ Chandigarh

UNION Home and Cooperation Minister Amit Shah on Friday said that by 2029, every panchayat in the country will have a cooperative society. Shah was inaugurating the country's largest curd, yogurt and butter-milk production dairy plant in Rohtak, Haryana.

The newly constructed Sabar Dairy Plant facility, built at ₹325 crore, will produce 150 metric tonnes of curd, 3 lakh litres of butter-milk, 10 metric tonnes of yogurt and 10 metric tonnes of sweets per day. Shah said that under White Revolution 2.0, more than 75,000 dairy societies will be established across the country in the coming days, and the government will also strengthen 46,000 dairy cooperative societies.

"Our current milk processing capacity is 660 lakh litres per day, and our target is to increase this to 100 million litres by 2028-29," he added.

Shah expressed gratitude to the PM, saying, "I want to assure you that before 2029, there will not be a single Panchayat across the country without a cooperative Samiti."

Further, the number of milch animals has increased from 86 million in 2014-2015 to 112 million now.

12 deaths & counting in MP, Raj; cough syrups under lens

ANURAAG SINGH & RAJESH ASNANI @ Bhopal/Jaipur

CHILDREN aged below five years, who were prescribed a combination of medicines, including two common cough syrups, by doctors in Madhya Pradesh's Chhindwara district, and Rajasthan, continue to die following kidney failure.

With three more deaths, the toll has risen from six to nine in MP, while at least three other kids are battling for their lives in neighbouring Nagpur (Maharashtra).

"Since September 4, nine children have died, while 13 others are undergoing treatment in Chhindwara and Nagpur hospitals," SDM-Parasia, Shubham Kumar Yadav said on Friday. "Out of the five kids who were admitted at the Chhindwara District Hospital, one has recovered and been discharged after full recovery, while two others are on the path to recovery. Two remaining kids are still under intensive treatment. In Nagpur, out of the eight hospitalised kids, the condition of three remains highly critical, as they are currently on dialysis and ventilator support," the SDM said.

Kidney injury suspected

Three deaths in Rajasthan have raised questions about the state's medical department. As per the biopsy reports of the kids who died at hospitals in Nagpur, acute kidney injury, and not any acute encephalitis syndrome, seems to have caused the deaths.

Meanwhile, in Rajasthan, a two-year-old child in Bharatpur district has died after consuming cough syrup provided under the CM's free medicine scheme. Previously, a two-year-old in Bayana village in Bharatpur and a five-year-old in Sikar had died after being given the same syrup.

In the latest case from Luhasa village in Bharatpur, two-year-old Tirthraj allegedly died after consuming the cough syrup. With three deaths, serious questions have arisen about the state's medical department. But far from any tough action against the culprits, efforts have begun to clear Caresons Pharma's Dextromethorphan HBR syrup, which is being blamed for the child deaths.

The government had formed a three-member committee to investigate the deaths.

Health ministry calls for 'rational' use of syrups

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ New Delhi

THE Health Ministry has issued an advisory to all states and Union Territories, directing that cough and cold medications should not be prescribed to children under the age of two years.

Issued by the Directorate General of Health Services (DGHS), the advisory comes amid reports of child deaths allegedly linked to contaminated cough syrups in Madhya Pradesh and Rajasthan. The advisory noted that none of the tested syrup samples in MP contained Diethylene Glycol (DEG) or Ethylene Glycol (EG), contaminants that are known to cause serious kidney injury.

People may also be sensitised regarding adherence to prescriptions by doctors, the advisory issued by Dr Sunita Sharma of the DGHS said. "Most acute cough illnesses in children are self-limiting and often resolve without pharmacological intervention," it noted.

Rivers swell in Chamoli in post-monsoon deluge

NARENDRA SETHI @ Dehradun

POST-monsoon rains lashing Uttarakhand's Chamoli district have led to a significant rise in the Alaknanda and Pindar rivers at Karnaprayag, causing widespread waterlogging and disruption. The Namami Gange crematorium, waiting halls, and toilets near the river confluence have been inundated, and the base of a mini sewage plant has also been submerged.

Police and district administration teams are closely monitoring the situation. They have issued repeated alerts to residents living near riverbanks and have urged families in landslide-prone areas to relocate to safer ground. Authorities are actively engaged in evacuating those at risk to prevent any loss of life.

"Although the declaration of a holiday saved the school administration from immediate operational headaches, the subsequent entry of debris and water now presents a massive challenge for reopening," said a villager, Bhupendra Singh.

Authorities put residents near banks on alert

Police and district administration teams are closely monitoring the situation. They have issued repeated alerts to residents living near riverbanks and have urged families in landslide-prone areas to relocate to safer ground. Authorities are engaged in evacuating those at risk.

Life in the Tharali development block has come to a near standstill. Residents, already grappling with the aftermath of previous natural disturbances, are now facing fresh terror from the rising Pindar River. Water has breached several key community areas, including Ramlila Ground, Shishu Mandir, Pindar Junior High School, and local traders' godowns, causing chaos and forcing many business owners to vacate their establishments.

Families have taken refuge in ancestral homes or designated relief centres. In Upper Market, severe land subsidence has heightened panic, and travel across more than a dozen routes between Tharali and Lolti remains hazardous.

The impact extends beyond flooding. Several important motor routes, including Tharali-Doongri and Tharali-Kurad-Partha, have been closed for over 15 days, creating a looming crisis for essential supplies. Pregnant women and the sick face particular difficulties accessing aid and medical help.

Heavy landslides and deep fissures have been reported in Gwaldam, Jola, Bud Jola, Lolti Thala, Talwadi, Malwajwad, Simla Sen, Talwadi Khalsa, and Sera Vijpur villages, causing immense hardship for the local population.

Station House Officer Pankaj Kumar said, "Due to the incessant rainfall, the river level is rising rapidly. We are exercising extreme caution to prevent any loss of life or property. The administration remains on high alert. The police are actively warning riverside residents and facilitating their movement to the Kulsari relief camp."

NSA invoked against 8 in Oct '24 Bahraich communal violence case

NAMITA BAJPAI @ Lucknow

A year after communal clashes rocked Bahraich claiming a life, the district magistrate (DM) and the superintendent of police (SP) have invoked the National Security Act (NSA) against eight of the accused lodged in jail since then on charges of murder and indulging in riots.

DM Akshay Tripathi said: "The step has been taken in the interest of public peace, law, and security. If anyone attempts to disturb peace in future, strict action will be taken on similar lines." Clashes had erupted in Maharajganj area of the central UP district on October 13 last year after some locals allegedly asked for music to be turned off during a Durga idol immersion procession passing through a Muslim-dominated locality.

A heated argument escalated into clashes and stone-pelting between two communities. The situation worsened when gunshots were allegedly fired, and a local resident, Ram Gopal Mishra, 22, sustained a bullet wound while trying to replace a green flag on a building with a saffron one. Mishra was rushed to the hospital where he died. Business establishments and houses were then set on fire. A clash also broke out between the rioters and police. It took more than a month for the situation to return to normal.

Mahsi area circle officer (CO) Dhirendra Kumar Srivastava said, "The DM has endorsed the recommendation to invoke the NSA against the eight accused two days ago." Under section 3(2) of the NSA, 1980, the eight accused have been formally detained, and further proceedings are underway as per government orders, he said. The eight accused include Maroof Ali, Nankau, Mohammad Fahim, Mohammad Afzal, Mohammad Zeeshan, Javed, Shoaib Khan and Saif Ali.

The Uttar Pradesh government has directed strict enforcement of law and order across the state. The government had earlier approved the NSA against five other accused in the same case after a recommendation was sent by the administration.

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ Bengaluru

VETERAN journalist, writer and columnist, who was Director of Express Publications (Madurai) Private Limited and Editorial Advisor to The New Indian Express, Thayil Jacob Sony George—popularly known as TJS George or TJS—passed away on Friday afternoon at a private hospital in Bengaluru. He was 97. He is survived by his son Jeet Thayil and daughter Sheba Thayil. His wife Ammu George died in January this year.

Family members informed that TJS was ailing from age-related problems for some time, with his condition deteriorating over the last two months. He was admitted to Manipal Hospital in Bengaluru last week, and had undergone a minor surgery from which he was recovering. However, complications set in on Thursday and Friday, when he suffered two cardiac arrests, respectively, the second from which he did not recover. TJS passed away at 4.30 pm on Friday.

TJS was born on May 7, 1928, as the fourth child of Thayil Thomas Jacob, a magistrate, and Chachiamma Jacob, and went on to graduate from the Madras Christian College with an Honours in English Literature before embarking on his journalistic career.

TJS began his career in 1950 at The Free Press Journal in India's Maximum City, then known as Bombay, now Mumbai. He went on to work with The Searchlight, the International Press Institute and the Far Eastern Economic Review before becoming the founding editor of Asiaweek, published from Hong Kong. At Searchlight, TJS became the first Indian editor to be charged with sedition in India. When he was arrested for his columns against then Bihar Chief Minister KB Sahay, the defence minister at that time, VK Krishna Menon, rushed to Patna to defend him.

During his long stint with The New Indian Express that spanned over four decades, TJS contributed 1,300 columns in the last 25 years before laying down his pen on June 12, 2022 with 'Now is the time to say Goodbye'. His column 'Point of View' ran for over 25 years and was widely read.

TJS never took a backward step during the rest of his career too, never flinching from speaking truth to power. In his final column, TJS explained how he saw it: "Some of us feel that we should not criticise our own country. Some feel exactly the other way—that a big country like ours needs to be cautioned all the way about pitfalls. All arguments have their own supporters and their own critics, their own validities and their own drawbacks. But there is something not right if a country and its rulers start feeling that they should not be criticised at all—and especially by newspaperwallahs."

He was honoured with the Padma Bhushan in 2011 for his significant contributions to literature and education, and was given the Karnataka Rajyotsava Award in 2007.

Some of the famous books that TJS wrote include: Lee Kuan Yew's Singapore (1973), Revolt in Mindanao : the rise of Islam in Philippine Politics (1980), Pothan Joseph's India (1992), The Life and Times of Nargis (1994), The First Refuge of Scoundrels (2003), MS, A life In Music (2004), Lessons In Journalism: The Story of Pothan Joseph (2007), M.S. Subbulakshmi: The Definitive Biography (2016), Askew: A Short Biography of Bangalore (2016), Jaya: An Incredible Story (2018), and The Dismantling of India: In 35 Portraits (2022).

TJS' last rites will be performed in Bengaluru, where he will be cremated at the Hebbal crematorium on Sunday afternoon.

India trashes B'desh's 'baseless' charge over Chittagong Hill unrest

JAYANTH JACOB @ New Delhi

INDIA on Friday strongly rejected allegations made by Bangladesh's interim government linking New Delhi to the recent violence in the Khagrachhari hill district, calling the claims "false and baseless," and accused Dhaka of failing to maintain law and order while "shifting the blame" externally.

Responding to comments by Bangladesh's Home Affairs Adviser Lt Gen (retd) Jahangir Alam Chowdhury, External Affairs Ministry spokesperson Randhir Jaiswal said: "We categorically reject these false and baseless allegations. The interim government of Bangladesh is unable to maintain law and order in the country and has a habit of routinely trying to shift the blame elsewhere."

Jaiswal urged Bangladesh to focus on internal accountability rather than external scapegoating. "It would do well for them to introspect and conduct serious investigations into the actions of local extremists committing violence, arson, and land grabs against the minority communities in the Chittagong Hill Tracts," he said.

The response comes after Chowdhury attempted to pin the blame for the ongoing unrest on former Prime Minister Sheikh Hasina and alleged Indian involvement. He claimed, without offering evidence that "certain quarters" were trying to provoke sectarian tensions during Durga Puja festival.

The Khagrachhari district has witnessed a surge in violence since Sunday following reports of the alleged gang rape of a tribal girl. The incident sparked clashes between tribal groups and Bengali settlers in the area, resulting in at least three deaths and injuries to at least a dozen others.

'Innovation, not cronyism': Rahul showers praises on Indian auto companies

PREETHA NAIR @ New Delhi

CONGRESS leader Rahul Gandhi, during his visit to Colombia, praised the global success of Indian two-wheeler companies while criticising "crony capitalism" and what he called a "wholesale attack on democracy" in India.

On social media platform X, Gandhi shared a photo of himself in front of a Bajaj Pulsar and wrote, "Proud to see Bajaj, Hero & TVS doing so well in Colombia. Shows Indian companies can win with innovation, not cronyism. Great job." The post was a thinly veiled critique of political patronage benefitting a few corporations in India.

At a seminar in EIA University in Medellin, Gandhi claimed, "Three or four businesses taking over the whole economy, having a direct relationship with the Prime Minister, is rampant in India." He alleged "huge amounts of corruption at a centralised level" and warned that such practices pose risks to India's economic and democratic system.

Referring to the Indian challenges, he said, "Currently, there is a wholesale attack on the democratic system in India, so that is a risk. The other big risk is different conceptions — some 16-17 different languages, different religions... So, allowing these different traditions to thrive, and giving them space to express themselves is very important for a country like India. We cannot do what China does, which is to suppress people and run an authoritarian system."

Gandhi also highlighted India's philosophical and spiritual traditions as a global strength, stating that the country has profound ideas that remain relevant in today's world.

Some of his remarks drew sharp criticism from the BJP. Senior leader Ravi Shankar Prasad accused him of defaming India on foreign soil.

> I am very optimistic about India, but there are fault lines. The single-biggest risk is the attack on democracy taking place in India
> Rahul Gandhi, Leader of Opposition

India has a complex system

Contrasting India's democratic ethos with China's authoritarian model, Gandhi said, "India has a much more complex system compared to China... Our design will just not accept suppression." He added that India's diversity requires space for free expression.

BJP hits back, says Rahul has become a flag-bearer of anti-India forces abroad

RAJESH KUMAR THAKUR @ New Delhi

THE BJP on Friday launched a scathing attack on Congress leader Rahul Gandhi over his remarks at a seminar in Colombia, claiming he has become the "flag-bearer of anti-India forces" and is promoting their agenda in the country.

Party spokesperson Sudhanshu Trivedi criticised Gandhi's comments, saying they show that the Congress, controlled by the Nehru-Gandhi family for over a century, is now succumbing to "anti-India" elements. Referring to Gandhi's statement about India having 16–17 languages, Trivedi said, "You will now see that he will try to create a conflict over the issue of languages. Attempts have already been made in the past to create a North-South conflict."

Trivedi called Gandhi the "jhanda bardar" (flag-bearer) of "anti-India forces" and appealed to the public to be wary of him and the Nehru-Gandhi family. "Today it seems that having a leader of the opposition like him is like a thorn in the heart of Indian democracy," he said.

He added, "Those in the Congress, who are aware of the party falling into the clutches of dangerous foreign forces are committing treason. I appeal to those who are not aware of this to show due diligence and stop such leaders."

Trivedi also criticised the Congress leadership as "immature," saying that the party once had mature leaders like Indira Gandhi and P.V. Narasimha Rao, who knew how to handle the Ultra-Left. "Today, it is being used. It's not a problem just for the Congress but a matter of concern for the country as well," he said.

Trivedi also targeted Congress leader Udit Raj, who allegedly called Prime Minister Narendra Modi "a symbol of modern Ravan". He said, "I only want to simply remind those who supported the killers of Rambhakt karsevaks did not attend the inauguration of Ram Temple in Ayodhya but visited Babar's memorial three times to pay their obeisance." He added: "People know very well who the symbols of Ravan's propensity of Lord Ram's 'sanskar' are."

Wangchuk's wife moves SC seeking husband's release

SUCHITRA KALYAN MOHANTY @ New Delhi

CLIMATE activist and Ladakh statehood crusader Sonam Wangchuk's wife, Dr. Gitanjali J. Angmo, has moved the Supreme Court seeking his immediate release from Jodhpur Central Jail, where he is being held under the National Security Act (NSA).

In a habeas corpus petition filed under Article 32, Dr. Angmo said her husband's arrest was "illegal and without cause." She said she has had no contact with him since his detention on September 26 and has no information about his health or the grounds of arrest.

Wangchuk had been on a hunger strike since September 10 as part of protests demanding statehood for Ladakh and inclusion under the Sixth Schedule of the Constitution. When violence erupted in Leh, he reportedly ended his fast and left in an ambulance before being detained.

With the Supreme Court currently on Dussehra break till October 6, Dr. Angmo plans to urgently mention the case once the court reopens.

She posted on X, saying, "It is one week today (October 2). Still, I have no information about Sonam Wangchuk's health, the condition he is in, nor the grounds of detention."

'No info about health'

She posted on X, saying, "It is one week today (October 2). Still, I have no information about Sonam Wangchuk's health, the condition he is in, nor the grounds of detention." She has also written to President Droupadi Murmu, calling the arrest a "witch hunt".

She has also written to President Droupadi Murmu, calling the arrest a "witch hunt" against a peaceful activist who has been working for Ladakh's people for years.

The Ministry of Home Affairs has accused Wangchuk of inciting violence, a charge his supporters reject.

The Leh Apex Body and the Kargil Democratic Alliance, which are leading the agitation, have demanded his unconditional release, along with the release of others detained.

Transfer probe to CBI: Zubeen murder accused

SUCHITRA KALYAN MOHANTY @ New Delhi

NORTHEAST India Festival organiser, Shyamkanu Mahanta, arrested by Assam Police in 52-year-old Assamese music icon, Zubeen Garg death case, has moved the Supreme Court seeking directions for transfer of investigation from the state SIT to the CBI or NIA.

According to sources in the Supreme Court registry and staff, the plea would come up for hearing next week. "The plea, being sensitive one, will come up for hearing in the next week, as the top court will be open on October 6, Monday," a senior Court staff from the top court registry told TNIE.

Mahanta, in his petition sought direction from SC to appoint a retired SC judge to monitor and supervise the investigation.

The SIT (Special Investigation Team) also arrested Zubeen's manager Siddharth Sharma, bandmate Shekhar Jyoti Goswami and co-singer Amritprabha Mahanta, besides Shyamkanu Mahanta.

'No provisions': Pilots can't be in AI Ahmedabad crash probe committee

S LALITHA @ New Delhi

THE Aircraft Accident Investigation Bureau (AAIB) has informed a leading pilot body, the Airline Pilots' Association of India (ALPA INDIA), that it would not be possible to include pilots in the ongoing final probe into the AI 171 crash at Ahmedabad. In its present form, the AAIB Act does not have any such provision, the association has been told.

The June 12 Boeing Dreamliner crash had left 260 people dead and the preliminary report has been released. Investigations are underway in connection with the final report. Various pilot bodies had blamed the preliminary report which pointed to human error and demanded that Subject Matter Experts (pilots with expertise) be included in the investigation process.

AAIB Director General, Yugandhar held a meeting at the DGCA office with the managing committee of ALPA, a Bengaluru-headquartered body with 1,000-plus pilots in India and abroad under its fold.

Meetings for aviation safety

The DG also promised to have quarterly meetings where a road map would be drawn for aviation safety and further investigation will involve ALPA India directly or their nominee, Rao added.

Capt Anil Rao, General Secretary of ALPA India, told this newspaper, "The DG made it known to us during the meeting that he had limitations in including outside bodies that are not part of the Government of India. This is as per the AIIB Act. Moreover, this is an ongoing investigation."

"The AAIB promised that they will do everything to ensure that when the Act is amended, they will have a provision where outside experts can be involved officially."

The DG also promised to have quarterly meetings where a road map would be drawn for aviation safety and further investigation will involve ALPA India directly or their nominee, Rao added.

The final choice on whether the SMEs can be involved in a particular accident probe would be the absolute right of the lead investigator, the General Secretary stressed.

In an official release on Thursday, ALPA INDIA was optimistic that members of the body would be made a part of the investigation into the crash.

Scrapped comps to be donated to govt schools

PARVEZ SULTAN @ New Delhi

THE Centre has found a way to reduce the stash of old computers and laptops in government offices, as the usable machines declared scrapped will be donated to state-run schools and other educational institutions.

The proposal came up during a discussion in a review meeting of nodal officers appointed by the ministries and departments for Special Campaign 5.0 for Swachhata and disposal of pending matters that took place last month.

As per the 2024-25 report of Unified District Information System for Education Plus (UDISE+), an educational management information system under MoE, out of 14.71 lakh schools in the country, 13.13 lakh are government run institutions and 60.2% of them have computers and 58.6% have internet connection. There are 79,349 government-aided schools with 74% having access to computers and 73.4% internet facilities available.

The secretary for the Department of Administrative Reforms and Public Grievances (DARPG) V Srinivas chaired the meeting held through video conference.

"The Department of School Education and Literacy (DoSE&L) will be issuing a circular on the Vidyanjali Scheme on donation of used personal computers (PCs) or laptops to schools or educational institutions by ministries or departments so that usable computers etc scrapped by ministries or departments can be put to best usage of school children through Vidyanjali," read the minutes of the review meeting seen by this newspaper.

The scheme is a Ministry of Education (MoE) initiative to connect volunteers, community members, and the private sector with government and government-aided schools to improve education quality and infrastructure. As part of the scheme, launched in September 2021, a dedicated online portal for individuals and organisations to offer their services, materials, or equipment, ranging from teaching vocational skills and languages to donating educational supplies and improving facilities. "It is going to be a massive exercise to ascertain the number of usable computers and laptops with the ministries and departments. A detailed audit needs to be done," said officials.

As reported earlier, this year's Special Campaign on Swachhata (Cleanliness) moves beyond scrap disposal and old record or file weeding. The special focus is on removal of no-longer unwanted electrical or electronic equipment (EEE).

SPECIAL CLEANLINESS DRIVE

- Special campaigns conducted from 2021-24 have generated a revenue of ₹2,364 crores through disposal of scrap
- Special Campaign 4.0 generated revenues of more than ₹650 crore in October last year
- The Special Campaign 4.0 was undertaken in more than 5.97L sites, resulting in freeing up 190L sq ft for effective office use

CHILD MARRIAGE

The police have registered a case against five persons in connection with the marriage of a minor tribal girl from Maharashtra's Palghar district, an official stated on Friday.

Focus on Bihar as Modi set to unveil ₹62K cr schemes

RAJESH KUMAR THAKUR @ New Delhi

AHEAD of the announcement of Bihar Legislative Assembly election dates by the Election Commission on Monday or Tuesday, Prime Minister Narendra Modi is set to launch several youth-focused initiatives, including schemes specifically for Bihar, worth ₹62,000 crore, on Saturday.

He will inaugurate the revamped Mukhyamantri Nishchay Swayam Sahayata Bhatta Yojana in Bihar, which will provide a monthly allowance of ₹1,000 for two years to nearly five lakh graduate youths. In a landmark step for skill development, Modi will also inaugurate the Jan Nayak Karpoori Thakur Skill University, aimed at promoting industry-oriented courses and vocational education.

On the educational infrastructure front, the Prime Minister will lay the foundation stone for new academic and research facilities in four universities—Patna University, Bhupendra Narayan Mandal University in Madhepura, Jai Prakash Vishwavidyalaya in Chapra, and Nalanda Open University in Patna—under the PM-USHA scheme. These projects, with a total allocation of ₹160 crore, are expected to benefit over 27,000 students by providing modern academic infrastructure, advanced laboratories, hostels, and multidisciplinary learning facilities.

4K govt job letters to be distributed in manpower push

Over 4,000 government appointment letters will be distributed, and ₹450 crore in scholarships will be released to 25 lakh students under the Mukhyamantri Balak/Balika Scholarship Scheme. With these initiatives, the BJP expects Bihar to become a hub for skilled manpower, supporting both regional and national development.

PM Modi will also dedicate the Bihta campus of NIT Patna to the nation. The campus now has the capacity to accommodate 6,500 students and includes a Regional Academic Centre for Space, established in collaboration with ISRO, as well as an Innovation and Incubation Centre, which has already supported nine start-ups.

In addition, the Prime Minister will felicitate 46 all-India toppers from Industrial Training Institutes under the Ministry of Skill Development and Entrepreneurship during the Kaushal Deekshant Samaroh, the fourth edition of the National Skill Convocation. He will also launch PM-SETU, a ₹60,000 crore initiative to upgrade 1,000 government ITIs nationwide, with special focus on it is in Patna and Darbhanga under PM-SETU.

Other initiatives include the inauguration of 1,200 Vocational Skill Labs in 400 Navodaya Vidyalayas and 200 Eklavya Model Residential Schools, the redesigned Bihar Student Credit Card Scheme offering interest-free loans up to ₹4 lakh, and the formal launch of the Bihar Yuva Ayog, a commission for youth aged 18-45.

Party's response on EC final voter list soon: Chakravarty

PREETHA NAIR @ New Delhi

DAYS after the Election Commission of India (EC) published the final voter list in poll-bound Bihar, Congress said that it will soon issue a detailed feedback as it involves an arduous effort to download over 90,000 PDFs of the list.

Praveen Chakravarty, chairman, AICC Data Analytics Department told this newspaper that the party will issue its response this week as its data analytics department and EAGLE, the committee set up to monitor polls, have been rigorously working on the data.

"It involves rigorous effort as the final voter list is available in PDF format for download, but it is provided as scanned images instead of machine-readable digital text. It runs into more than 90,000 pages. We have downloaded the PDFs and the rest of the work needs to be done," he said.

Oppn may move SC

CPI (ML) general secy Dipankar Bhattacharya said on Friday that the Opposition would move the SC if the EC failed to address alleged discrepancies in the final voter list.

The opposition parties, including Congress, were up in arms over the ECI's decision to replace the machine-readable draft voter lists with scanned image PDFs for the intensive revision exercise. The Congress has been demanding the voter list in machine-readable format, saying it will help it flag flaws. However, citing a 2019 Supreme Court judgment, CEC Gyanesh Kumar said that the voter list in machine-readable format cannot be shared with political parties as it can be edited and can lead to its misuse, he said.

In the final voter list, the total number of electors have come down by nearly 47 lakh to 7.42 crore from 7.89 crore before the special intensive review of electoral rolls.

Setback to JD(U), Nitish MLA quits to join Tejashwi

RAMASHANKAR & RAJESH KUMAR THAKUR @ Patna/New Delhi

JD(U) MLA Sanjeev Kumar on Friday resigned from Nitish Kumar's party and joined the RJD at a function in Bihar's Khagaria. Son of four-time MLA Ramanand Prasad Singh, he was elected from Parbatta constituency in 2020.

Welcoming Sanjeev, RJD leader Tejashwi Yadav said his joining "will strengthen the party's poll prospects in Khagaria district as he belongs to a dominant and influential caste and a family that has been in politics for long enjoying a major caste clout in the area."

EC team in Patna today

A three-member EC team will arrive in Patna on Saturday for a two-day meet to review the preparedness for the Bihar Assembly polls due soon.

Sanjeev comes from dominant Bhumihar upper caste and his joining is set to change the caste equation in the region. Recently, he organised the Brahmrishi Swabhiman Yatra in Patna, which made an appeal for unity in the Bhumihar community. He was critical of the SIR of electoral rolls and had criticised the Election Commission and the NDA government for doing the exercise a few months before the election.

"Kumar's joining the RJD has given a bad message to JD(U). Caste dynamics in Khagaria will certainly tilt towards RJD," said an influential member of the Bhumihar community. "Bhumihars are seeing Tejashwi Yadav separately from what his father had said and done earlier against the community," he said.

JD(U) national spokesperson Rajeev Ranjan Prasad said, "Sanjeev has been involved in anti-party activities. He was fearing disciplinary action. So, he left the party."

PM's brother visits Badrinath Dham

Pankaj Modi, younger brother of Prime Minister Narendra Modi, visited the revered Badrinath Dham on Friday to offer prayers. He was warmly welcomed by the Shri Badrinath Kedarnath Temple Committee (BKTC) on arrival. After participating in the temple rituals, he received 'prasad' from the authorities. Following his 'darshan', Modi and his accompanying guests called on BKTC Chairman Hemant Dwivedi for a courtesy visit. They discussed arrangements related to the ongoing pilgrimage season. The temple is preparing for its annual winter closure, with the portals scheduled to close on November 25 at 2.56 pm.

State BJP leaders see red over Rahul's remarks

The Uttarakhand BJP on Friday strongly criticised Rahul Gandhi over his recent statements in Colombia, accusing him of tarnishing India's image on foreign soil. State BJP president Mahendra Bhatt alleged that Gandhi repeatedly attacks Indian democracy whenever he speaks abroad. He called him the "Leader of Propaganda", twisting the LoP acronym. Bhatt claimed Gandhi often insults national institutions. He further said Gandhi is only focused on gaining power "by hook or by crook", despite repeated rejection. "Instead of learning from people's feedback and improving himself, he keeps challenging the entire democratic system," he added.

113-year-old Bageshwar bridge set for restoration

Bageshwar's historic 113-year-old suspension bridge over the Saryu river is finally set for restoration. A high-level meeting chaired by the Chief Secretary has approved ₹1.8 crore from the Missing Link Fund to repair the deteriorating structure. Built around 1912 during British rule, the 51-metre span bridge is a crucial link connecting the town with the Baghnath temple and the confluence of the Saryu and Gomti rivers. It serves thousands of commuters, pilgrims, and tourists daily. The revival of this old bridge is a long-awaited relief for locals. Once restored, it will continue serving as an essential route while preserving a key part of Bageshwar's heritage.

OBC minister in Gujarat cabinet named state BJP chief ahead of local polls

DILIP SINGH KSHATRIYA @ Ahmedabad

THE suspense over the Gujarat BJP's leadership has ended. Ahmedabad City MLA and Minister Jagdish Vishwakarma has been confirmed as the party's new state president, elected unopposed. With his rise, the BJP gains its third OBC state chief in 45 years, signalling a potential caste recalibration ahead of crucial local polls and a looming cabinet expansion.

Jagdish Vishwakarma, MLA from Ahmedabad's Nikol seat and Minister of State for Cooperation, has filed his nomination for State President and will be elected unopposed as the new state president of the party.

Union Minister Bhupender Yadav, who supervised the organisational process, announced the development on Friday after the nomination window closed with Vishwakarma as the sole contender. His candidature was backed unanimously by 292 state council members, cementing his elevation as a consensus choice within the party.

Vishwakarma's rise carries historical significance. After a 19-year gap, the Gujarat BJP has handed over its reins to an OBC

leader — only the third time in its 45-year history. The first was Kashiram Rana in the early 1990s, followed by Vajubhai Vala from 1996 to 1998 and again briefly in 2005–06. With Vishwakarma, the party returns to its experiment with backward-class leadership, underscoring the growing importance of caste equations in Gujarat's shifting political landscape.

However, his appointment is not just about representation — it is also about power geography. For the first time in decades, both the government and the party organisation are controlled by leaders from Ahmedabad city. Chief Minister Bhupendra Patel hails from Ghatlodia in the city's west, while Vishwakarma represents Nikol in the east.

Coop society in every panchayat by '29, says Shah

HARPREET BAJWA @ Chandigarh

UNION Home and Cooperation Minister Amit Shah on Friday said that by 2029, every panchayat in the country will have a cooperative society. Shah was inaugurating the country's largest curd, yogurt and butter-milk production dairy plant in Rohtak, Haryana.

The newly constructed Sabar Dairy Plant facility, built at ₹325 crore, will produce 150 metric tonnes of curd, 3 lakh litres of butter-milk, 10 metric tonnes of yogurt and 10 metric tonnes of sweets per day. Shah said that under White Revolution 2.0, more than 75,000 dairy societies will be established across the country in the coming days, and the government will also strengthen 46,000 dairy cooperative societies.

"Our current milk processing capacity is 660 lakh litres per day, and our target is to increase this to 100 million litres by 2028-29," he added.

Shah expressed gratitude to the PM, saying, "I want to assure you that before 2029, there will not be a single Panchayat across the country without a cooperative Samiti."

Further, the number of milch animals has increased from 86 million in 2014-2015 to 112 million now.

12 deaths & counting in MP, Raj; cough syrups under lens

ANURAAG SINGH & RAJESH ASNANI @ Bhopal/Jaipur

Kidney injury suspected

Three deaths in Rajasthan have raised questions about the state's medical department. As per the biopsy reports of the kids who died at hospitals in Nagpur, acute kidney injury, and not any acute encephalitis syndrome, seems to have caused the deaths.

CHILDREN aged below five years, who were prescribed a combination of medicines, including two common cough syrups, by doctors in Madhya Pradesh's Chhindwara district, and Rajasthan, continue to die following kidney failure.

With three more deaths, the toll has risen from six to nine in MP, while at least three other kids are battling for their lives in neighbouring Nagpur (Maharashtra).

"Since September 4, nine children have died, while 13 others are undergoing treatment in Chhindwara and Nagpur hospitals," SDM-Parasia, Shubham Kumar Yadav said on Friday. "Out of the five kids who were admitted at the Chhindwara District Hospital, one has recovered and been discharged after full recovery, while two others are on the path to recovery. Two remaining kids are still under intensive treatment. In Nagpur, out of the eight hospitalised kids, the condition of three remains highly critical, as they are currently on dialysis and ventilator support," the SDM said.

Meanwhile, in Rajasthan, a two-year-old child in Bharatpur district has died after consuming cough syrup provided under the CM's free medicine scheme. Previously, a two-year-old in Bayana village in Bharatpur and a five-year-old in Sikar had died after being given the same syrup.

In the latest case from Luhasa village in Bharatpur, two-year-old Tirthraj allegedly died after consuming the cough syrup. With three deaths, serious questions have arisen about the state's medical department. But far from any tough action against the culprits, efforts have begun to clear Caresons Pharma's Dextromethorphan HBR syrup, which is being blamed for the child deaths.

The government had formed a three-member committee to investigate the deaths.

No cold & cough syrups for kids below 2 yrs: Govt

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ New Delhi

THE Health Ministry has issued an advisory to all states and Union Territories, directing that cough and cold medications should not be prescribed to children under the age of two years.

Issued by the Directorate General of Health Services (DGHS), the advisory comes amid reports of child deaths allegedly linked to contaminated cough syrups in Madhya Pradesh and Rajasthan. The advisory noted that none of the tested syrup samples in MP contained Diethylene Glycol (DEG) or Ethylene Glycol (EG), contaminants that are known to cause serious kidney injury.

People may also be sensitised regarding adherence to prescriptions by doctors, the advisory issued by Dr Sunita Sharma of the DGHS said. "Most acute cough illnesses in children are self-limiting and often resolve without pharmacological intervention," it noted.

Rivers swell in Chamoli in post-monsoon deluge

NARENDRA SETHI @ Dehradun

POST-monsoon rains lashing Uttarakhand's Chamoli district have led to a significant rise in the Alaknanda and Pindar rivers at Karnaprayag, causing widespread waterlogging and disruption. The Namami Gange crematorium, waiting halls, and toilets near the river confluence have been inundated, and the base of a mini sewage plant has also been submerged.

Police and district administration teams are closely monitoring the situation. They have issued repeated alerts to residents living near riverbanks and have urged families in landslide-prone areas to relocate to safer ground. Authorities are actively engaged in evacuating those at risk to prevent any loss of life.

"Although the declaration of a holiday saved the school administration from immediate operational headaches, the subsequent entry of debris and water now presents a massive challenge for reopening," said

Authorities put residents near banks on alert

Police and district administration teams are closely monitoring the situation. They have issued repeated alerts to residents living near riverbanks and have urged families in landslide-prone areas to relocate to safer ground. Authorities are engaged in evacuating those at risk.

a villager, Bhupendra Singh.

Life in the Tharali development block has come to a near standstill. Residents, already grappling with the aftermath of previous natural disturbances, are now facing fresh terror from the rising Pindar River. Water has breached several key community areas, including Ramlila Ground, Shishu Mandir, Pindar Junior High School, and local traders' godowns, causing chaos and forcing many business owners to vacate their establishments.

Families have taken refuge in ancestral homes or designated relief centres. In Upper Market, severe land subsidence has heightened panic, and travel across more than a dozen routes between Tharali and Lolti remains hazardous.

The impact extends beyond flooding. Several important motor routes, including Tharali-Doongri and Tharali-Kurad-Partha, have been closed for over 15 days, creating a looming crisis for essential supplies. Pregnant women and the sick face particular difficulties accessing aid and medical help.

Heavy landslides and deep fissures have been reported in Gwaldam, Jola, Bud Jola, Lolti Thala, Talwadi, Malwajwad, Simla Sen, Talwadi Khalsa, and Sera Vijpur villages, causing immense hardship for the local population.

Station House Officer Pankaj Kumar said, "Due to the incessant rainfall, the river level is rising rapidly. We are exercising extreme caution to prevent any loss of life or property. The administration remains on high alert. The police are actively warning riverside residents and facilitating their movement to the Kulsari relief camp."

Kumar shares daughter's encounter with dangerous cyber criminals

SUDHIR SURYAWANSHI @ Mumbai

CYBERCRIME is growing faster than street crime, Bollywood actor Akshay Kumar warned on Friday, recalling that his teenage daughter was once asked for a nude photo during an online video game.

Akshay shared the incident at a cyber safety awareness programme in Mumbai, attended by Maharashtra Chief Minister Devendra Fadnavis and senior police officials. He said his daughter was playing the game a few months ago when she encountered an unknown person who initially sent polite and encouraging messages.

"The person who was playing a video game with my daughter was very sober and talked normally. The communication was on and after the game, that person used to give a compliment to my daughter, saying well played… nice... It was as usual a normal conversation. That went for a few days, then after some days, that person again gave the compliment at the end of the game and asked, Are you male or female?" Akshay said.

The actor said the person had later asked his daughter where she lived, to which she had replied Mumbai.

"Another day, at the end of the game, he, as usual, gave the compliment and praised her game. Then, he asked my daughter to send her nude picture. My daughter was shocked, and she immediately switched off her phone and informed her mother," he said.

"This is how everything begins. It is great that my daughter spoke to my wife about it," he added. "This is a part of cyber crime, where children get carried away. In some cases, people face extortion and many things happen. There are many cases where the victim ends life."

Meanwhile, Akshay urged that cyber awareness be made part of the school syllabus. "In school, we learn history and maths. We also learn two plus two is four. But in the cyber world that four can become zero. Our children should learn all this," he said.

"I would like to request the CM that in Maharashtra schools from class 7 to 10, there should be a weekly 'period' on cyber safety. The education on cybercrime is very important nowadays," he added.

HOPES FADE FOR END TO U.S. SHUTDOWN AS DON READIES CUTS

Trump pauses $2.1 billion in aid for Chicago infra projects, declares 'war' on cities

WASHINGTON

HOPES for a quick end to the government shutdown were fading Friday as Republicans and Democrats dug in for a prolonged fight and President Donald Trump readied plans to unleash layoffs and cuts across the federal government.

Senators were headed back to the Capitol for another vote on government funding on the third day of the shutdown, but there has been no sign of any real progress toward ending their standoff. Democrats are demanding that Congress extend health care benefits, while Republicans are trying to wear them down with day after day of voting on a House-passed bill that would reopen the government temporarily, mostly at current spending levels.

"I don't know how many times you're going to give them a chance to vote no," Senate Majority Leader John Thune said at a news conference Friday. He added that he would give Democratic senators the weekend to think it over.

Although Republicans control the White House and both chambers of Congress, the Senate's filibuster rules make it necessary for the government funding legislation to gain support from at least 60 of the 100 senators. That's given Democrats a rare opportunity to use their 47 Senate seats to hold out in exchange for policy concessions. The party has chosen to rally on the issue of health care, believing it could be key to their path back to power in Washington. Their primary demand is that Congress extend tax credits that were boosted during the COVID-19 pandemic for health care plans offered under the Affordable Care Act.

Trump has called the government funding lapse an "unprecedented opportunity" to make vast cuts to federal agencies and potentially lay off federal workers, rather than the typical practice of furloughing them. White House budget director Russ Vought has already announced he is withholding infrastructure funds in states with Democratic senators. AP

Sarah Mullally is 1st female Archbishop of Church of England

LONDON

A 63-year-old former nurse, Sarah Mullally, was named as the first female Archbishop of Canterbury on Friday, pledging to improve safety at the Church of England following an abuse scandal that ousted her predecessor.

The former midwife becomes the first woman to lead the centuries-old mother church of the world's 85-million strong Anglican community. Her nomination by a committee tasked with finding a successor to Justin Welby, who stepped down earlier this year, was approved by King Charles III, the UK government said in a statement.

Mullally acknowledged the "huge responsibility" of her new role and vowed to "confront the dynamics of power" that had led the church to cover up the abuse of dozens of boys and young men several decades ago. She cautioned that it would "not be easy", due to a "history of safeguarding failures" that has "left a legacy of deep harm and mistrust" in the Church of England, which can trace its origins back to the Roman Empire.

"We must all be willing to have light shone on our actions, regardless of our role in the church," she said during an appearance at Canterbury Cathedral following her appointment. Mullally, who is married with two children, will become the 106th Archbishop of Canterbury, the first having been appointed in the late sixth century, when she officially takes up the role following a ceremony due in January. Ordained a priest in 2002, she became the first female Bishop of London in 2018, four years after the church let women bishops following years of factional wrangling. AFP

Munich airport temporarily shuttered after drone sightings

MUNICH Airport was temporarily shut down on Friday after several drone sightings in the area, the latest mysterious drone overflights in the airspace of European Union member countries, officials said. Germany's air traffic control restricted flights at the airport shortly after 10 pm (2000 GMT) on Thursday and then halted them altogether, airport operators said in a statement. Seventeen flights were unable to take off, affecting almost 3,000 passengers, while 15 arriving flights were diverted to three other airports in Germany and one in Vienna, Austria. A statement from the airport early Friday said there had been 'several drone sightings,' without elaborating. Stefan Bayer, spokesperson for airport police, said airline employees and 'regular people around the airport' were among witnesses who saw the drones. AFP

Nation can absorb strong shocks: FM

Says reliance on domestic demand, infra investment and policy flexibility has been a cushion

PUSHPITA DEY @ New Delhi

INDIA is in a position to absorb shocks arising due to current global trade uncertainties, geopolitical challenges and tariff situations, said Finance Minister Nirmala Sitharaman at the Kautilya Economic Conclave 2025 in New Delhi.

"Sanctions, tariffs, and decoupling strategies are reshaping global supply chains. Wars and strategic rivalries are redrawing boundaries of cooperation and conflict. Alliances that once appeared solid are being tested, and new coalitions are emerging. For India, these dynamics highlight both vulnerability and resilience. Our capacity to absorb shocks is strong, while our economic leverage is evolving," said Sitharaman at the event.

She acknowledged the fact that for many smaller developing nations, current geopolitical environment poses fundamental challenges. There could be several risks and opportunities that the developing economies can look into.

Sitharaman highlights the resilience of the Indian economy, calls for inclusive global cooperation. She acknowledged downside risks — from tariff escalations in developed markets to slowing demand in key export destinations — but noted that India's reliance on domestic demand, infrastructure investment and policy flexibility has been a buffer.

She called for reforms in multilateral institutions to better reflect the stakes of emerging economies — urging richer nations to provide climate finance, concessional lending and market access to developing countries. Her remarks echo India's long-standing push for a greater voice for the Global South.

She added, "If multipolarity is our future, what shape will it take? Will it be one of cooperative pluralism, where different models coexist, or will it harden into rival blocs and spheres of influence, forcing nations to pick sides? History offers no guarantees, but the possibility of a fragmented world, with multiple centres of power, and competing values appears more likely."

She cautioned trade imbalances have hollowed out industries in some nations while creating overcapacity in others. Financial imbalances have concentrated wealth in speculative sectors while depriving the real economy of investment.

SANCTIONS, TARIFFS, AND DECOUPLING STRATEGIES ARE RESHAPING GLOBAL SUPPLY CHAINS, SAYS SITHARAMAN

'Economy well settled despite global unrest'

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU @ New Delhi

RESERVE Bank of India (RBI) Governor Sanjay Malhotra on Friday said India has emerged as an anchor of stability in a volatile world.

Despite headwinds from trade tensions, elevated debt levels, and geopolitical volatility, India has maintained its resilience, he said during his address at the Kautilya Economic Conclave 2025. "It is the combined efforts of the government's policy makers, regulators, and regulated entities. All in all, despite recent odds, the economy seems well settled into an equilibrium of resilient growth. This is quite a feat that makes India stand out as an anchor of stability in a volatile world," said RBI governor.

He asserted that despite global challenges, the country has been expanding foreign exchange reserves, and managed to have low inflation and a narrowing current account deficit as key pillars of strength.

'India is no longer seen as outsourcing destination'

PUSHPITA DEY @ New Delhi

INDIA is no more an 'outsourcing destination' for advanced countries, believes Lord Karan Bilimoria, the founding Chairman of the UK-India Business Council (UKIBC).

Also, with the India-UK free trade agreement being signed, Bilimoria asserted that India and the UK will soon be supporting each other to further develop digital infrastructure.

"India can benefit from partnering with the UK especially in the defence sector. And you see the big mindset change that is taking place now is India is no longer looked upon as an outsourcing destination," said Bilimoria during an exclusive interaction with the New Indian Express during the Kautilya Economic Conclave 2025 in New Delhi.

According to him, the India-UK FTA will help both countries work on several sectors and strengthen them. But two sectors that will surely stand out are defense and academic sectors.

He confirmed that British universities, colleges and schools are willing to set up their campuses in India. "There are immense opportunities for countries in terms of collaborating on digital trade," he said

"We can partner with India, which is also very advanced, and work together. And now the UK, for example, has announced that we want to have digital IDs. India's got the Aadhar. India's got the payment system digitalised. India has offered to partner with the UK, saying, here's our digital stack, you're welcome to work with us. So that partnership will benefit both countries, and India's actually ahead of the game."

India's got Aadhar. India's got payment system digitalised. India has offered to partner with UK, saying, here's our digital stack, you're welcome to work with us. So that partnership will benefit both countries, and India's ahead of the game

Lord Karan Bilimoria, founding Chairman, UKIBC

While talking on the implications of the US tariff on the global economy and trade, he said that the current approach of the US government will not only disrupt global trade, it will also impact the United States economy soon and the US consumers will be the worst affected.

"I don't believe that anyone is going to benefit from these high tariffs, including America, because in the long run, you're making products more expensive for your own consumers. It's the American consumer that will hurt the most from this," added Bilimoria.

The United States has increased the tariff on the UK exports from 2% to 10%, while the tariffs on several Indian products have been increased to 50%.

However, he said that the US makes up for only 13% of world trade and the rest is made up by others, including India and the UK.

Steeply falling household deposits pose challenges to banks, credit growth

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU @ Mumbai

STEEPLY falling share of household deposits in overall term deposits, altering the overall composition of banks' liabilities mix, could pose new challenges to banks and the overall credit market, a report has warned.

Between fiscals 2019-20 and 2024-25, the share of households in incremental bank deposits has dropped from 67% to 52%. What is more worrying is steep fall in share of savings deposits in overall deposits, which hit a decadal low in fiscal 2024-25 at 10% of all incremental total deposits. Typically more than 90% of bank's total borrowings are in the form of deposits.

Fall in overall household share in deposits is attributed to term deposits, where share of households has fallen from 58% to 54% in last five fiscals. In contrast, share of households in the low-cost Casa deposits has seen only a marginal drop.

On outstanding basis, the share of household deposits in bank deposits fell from 64% to 60% between fiscals 2019-20 and 2024-25, with non-financial corporations filling the gap, with a 4% rise. This shift has implications for deposit stability and costs as corporate depositors tend to be more rate sensitive and prefer shorter tenures, Crisil said in a report on Friday.

However, the report added that overall recent pick up deposits growth at the system level, along with enhanced liquidity boost by way of CRR cut and new LCR norms, are adequate to fund likely 11-12% incremental credit growth this fiscal.

The report said the structural shifts underway in the form of a fall in household contribution to term-deposits and a falling current account and savings account ratio, pose challenges to banks as these two structural shifts in deposit composition may pose challenges to deposit stability and impact funding costs over medium to long-term, mainly during periods of tight liquidity, Crisil said.

On liquidity front, the report said release of ₹2.5 lakh crore (equivalent to 1% of outstanding deposits into system) through phased-reduction of 100 bps in cash reserve ratio (CRR), along with revised liquidity coverage ratio (LCR) norms, could free up investments of ₹1.9 lakh crore.

Besides deposit growth, which determines their stability and cost, and consequently, the sustainability of bank credit growth. Notably, the ownership pattern of deposits is seeing a structural shift with a contraction in the share of household deposits.

NITI proposes presumptive tax for foreign cos

DIPAK MONDAL @ New Delhi

GOVERNMENT think-tank Niti Aayog has proposed an optional industry-specific presumptive taxation scheme for foreign companies.

The proposal is aimed at enhancing tax certainty and predictability for foreign investors, which the think-tank identifies as a critical impediment to maximising foreign direct investment (FDI) inflows.

It has warned that existing complexities and ambiguities in rules governing permanent establishment (PE) and profit attribution have led to significant tax uncertainty and compliance burdens for multinationals. It says the lack of clear, objective standards has resulted in protracted litigation, with major PE disputes often taking anywhere from 6 to 12 or more years to reach a final resolution in the courts. A PE is the business presence of a foreign company in a host country that incurs income or tax liability.

Under presumptive taxation, businesses are allowed to declare a fixed percentage of their income as taxable profit, and are thus taxed on that profit instead of calculating all the expenses and then deducting it.

India already applies presumptive taxation for some sectors. For example, foreign companies providing certain electronics manufacturing services deem 25% of gross payments as profit. For non-resident cruise ship operators, 20% of gross receipts are deemed as taxable profits. The proposal builds on existing use of presumptive tax. "Prescribing sector-specific guidance offers businesses a framework to plan their operations and tax liabilities in advance.... For foreign investors, advantages are clarity in compliance, reduction in litigation risk, lower costs of doing business, and ease of operations in India," says Vishwas Panjar, Partner, NangiaNXT

As per Niti Aayog, a presumptive tax regime would provide investors with a clear framework, allowing them to budget for Indian taxes with certainty, making India a more attractive investment destination. It further says tax officers would no longer need to perform complex audits and gather extensive evidence. Beyond presumptive taxation, the NITI Aayog has proposed a multi-pronged strategy to align the tax system with the "Viksit Bharat by 2047" vision. It calls for a robust overhaul of dispute mechanisms, specifically recommending the expansion of Advance Pricing Agreement (APA) and Mutual Agreement Procedure (MAP) programs.

Presumptive tax to provide investors clear framework

According to Niti Aayog, a presumptive tax regime would provide investors with a clear framework, allowing them to budget for Indian taxes with certainty, making India a more attractive investment destination. It further says tax officers would no longer need to perform complex audits and gather extensive evidence

JP Morgan values Reliance Retail at $143 bn, Jio Infocomm at $135 bn

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU @ Mumbai

GLOBAL banker JP Morgan has valued Reliance Jio Infocomm at $135 billion and Reliance Retail at $143 billion.

Reliance Industries chairman Mukesh Ambani at the company's recent annual general meeting (AGM) announced that the telecom arm will be listed next year. In a report, the Wall Street major said RIL's consumer businesses are set to drive nearly all of the group's earnings growth in the coming years. Reliance Retail's December revenue could be supported by recent GST cuts. A tariff increase at Jio is likely ahead of the IPO, it added.

"Reliance Retail and telecom now account for 54% of the total FY25 consolidated Ebitda (earnings before interest, taxes, depreciation, and amortization). In our estimates, they will account for nearly all of the net Ebitda growth over the next three years," JP Morgan analysts wrote in a September 30 report.

RIL's 83% stake in Reliance Retail is valued at ₹10.5 lakh crore or $118 billion, or ₹776 a share, based on a 34.5x blended multiple of FY27-FY28 Ebitda, the report said. JPMorgan forecasts segmental Ebitda of ₹34,400 crore in FY27, rising to ₹39,000 crore by FY28.

Noida, Navi Mumbai international airports to begin operations in Oct

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU @ New Delhi

INDIA is all set to see two new mega airports opening up this month – Noida International Airport (NIA) in Delhi NCR and Navi Mumbai International Airport in Mumbai Metropolitan Region (MMR).

While the Navi Mumbai International Airport is set to be inaugurated on October 8 by Prime Minister Narendra Modi, Union Civil Aviation Minister Kinjarapu Ram Mohan Naidu recently announced that the much-delayed NIA will finally be inaugurated on October 30. The airports are being developed to meet the growing demand for air travel and to ease congestion at the two existing airports in the country's largest cities. Aviation regulator DGCA has already granted an aerodrome licence to NMIA to commence operations. NIA, located in Jewar (Uttar Pradesh) is expected to receive the important license very soon as much of the infrastructure is already complete.

Airlines have started tying up with the airports. Last month, Air India joined IndiGo and Akasa Air to launch operations from NMIA. For Noida airport, IndiGo signed an MoU in November 2023 to serve as the launch carrier. Akasa Air has also committed to building a strong network from here.

Adani Group Chairman Gautam Adani on Wednesday personally inspected the final preparations of the NMIA. In a social media post, Adani wrote, "Ahead of the inauguration of Navi Mumbai International Airport on 8 Oct, I met with our differently-abled colleagues, construction workers, women staff, engineers, artisans, fire fighters and the guards who helped bring this vision to life".

CRUDE PROCESSING RISES 3% IN AUGUST

RAKESH KUMAR @ New Delhi

INDIA processed a total of 22.3 million tonne (MT) of crude oil in August 2025, a 3% increase over the same month in August 2024, according to data from the Petroleum Planning & Analysis Cell (PPAC). The rise in crude throughput reflects an uptick in refinery operations, converting crude into petroleum products such as petrol, diesel, aviation turbine fuel (ATF), and others.

India, which holds the fourth-largest refining capacity globally — behind the United States, China, and Russia — processed 15 MMT of crude through Public Sector Undertaking (PSU) and Joint Venture (JV) refineries. Private sector refineries, including Reliance Industries Limited (RIL) and Nayara Energy, processed 7.3 MMT during the month.

Of the total crude processed, 2.2 MMT came from indigenous sources, while 20.1 MMT was imported and refined across both public and private refineries. Among public sector refineries, Indian Oil Corporation Ltd. (IOCL), operating nine refineries across India, reported the highest output in August 2025. It produced 5.8 MMT, up from 5.6 MMT in August 2024. Hindustan Petroleum Corporation Ltd. (HPCL) processed 3.2 MMT in August 2025, marginally up from 3.1 MMT in August 2024.

JAPAN

SERVICES SECTOR EXPANDS IN SEPTEMBER

Japan's services sector continued to expand at a solid pace in September, with the S&P Global Japan Services Business Activity Index rising to 53.3 from 53.1 in August, as per the data released on Friday. The latest reading marked the second-strongest growth rate since February and extended the current expansion streak to six months. The Finance & Insurance category emerged as the top performer, with all industries except Real Estate & Business Services recording improved business activity. New business continued to expand at a solid pace, unchanged from August, as companies reported successful business development efforts and new client acquisitions boosting sales. However, foreign demand for Japanese services declined further. The sustained growth in activity and sales encouraged service providers to increase their workforce numbers in September.

THAILAND

FACTORY OUTPUT DECLINES IN AUGUST

Thailand's Industry Ministry has reported that the country's factory output contracted in August and was weaker than forecast, as slowing exports, falling tourist numbers and a strong baht weighed on the economy. As per the ministry, Thailand's August manufacturing production index fell 4.19% from a year earlier. Negative factors included a weaker car industry and a fall in industrial sentiment, it said. Thai exports grew 5.8% in August from a year ago, slowest pace in a year due to stronger baht and impact of US tariffs, as per the ministry. The ministry aims to conclude a tariff agreement with the US by the year-end, minister Suphajee Suthumpun told parliament on September 29. The ministry will seek to expand trade in markets like Japan, Singapore, South Asia and the Middle East, and accelerate FTA negotiations with the EU and Korea, Suphajee said.

SOUTH KOREA

SEPT INFLATION AT 2.1%, SLIGHTLY ABOVE FORECAST

South Korea's consumer prices rose in September at a slightly faster pace than market expectations, after a one-off drag in August, government data showed on Thursday. The consumer price index rose 2.1% in September from a year earlier, after rising by a nine-month low of 1.7% in August. The index rose 0.5% on a monthly basis, also slightly faster than a 0.4% rise expected by economists. In the previous month, it fell 0.1% on a one-month price discount offered by a major mobile carrier. Prices of processed foods surged 4.2%, adding 0.36 percentage points to the overall inflation rate. Bread prices increased 6.5%and coffee surged 15.6%. Livestock products increased 5.4%, while fishery products were up 6.4%. The living cost index, which reflects consumer sentiment more directly, accelerated to a 2.5% increase from 1.5% in August. Core inflation, which excludes volatile food and energy prices, rose 2%.

Bellingham fails to regain place in Eng squad

Jude Bellingham failed to regain his place in England's squad on Friday after returning from injury, with England head coach Thomas Tuchel stressing the need to maintain a strong team spirit in the camp and saying there are 'no guarantees' for his superstar players. That meant no recall for Real Madrid's Bellingham and Man City's Phil Foden.

KL Rahul plays a shot against West Indies on Day 2 of 1st Test on Friday | AFP

SCOREBOARD

West Indies 1st innings: 162; India 1st innings: Rahul c Greaves b Warrican 100, Gill c Greaves b Chase 50, Jurel c Hope b Pierre 125, Jadeja batting 104, Washington batting 9; Extras: (b-12, lb-3, w-1, nb-1) 17; Total: (for 5 wickets in 128 overs) 448; FoW: 3-188, 4-218, 5-424; Bowling: Seales 19-2-53-1, Layne 15-0-38-0, Greaves 12-4-59-0, Warrican 29-5-102-1, Pierre 29-1-91-1, Chase 24-3-90-2.

JUST before lunch on Day Two at the new Motera, KL Rahul whipped one delivery off Roston Chase past the close-in fielder at midwicket. Even before completing the single, the celebration had begun. This was a long time coming so he was determined to continue the celebrations. After completing the run, off came the helmet. What would he do was a question that went around the press box? Would he take his fingers to make a gesture of shutting out the outside noise?

In the end, he took the ring and middle-fingers of his left hand and appeared to suck on it while raising his bat again with the other hand. In hindsight, even that celebration was choreographed (it was for his daughter). And it was apt that was also choreographed because it was that kind of innings from the Indian opener. He was so much in control of what he wanted to do, so in command of the situation.

In the process, he also brought up only his second Test 100 in India and a first since the game against England in Chennai, the one where his statemate, Karun Nair, scored a triple way back in 2016. The 33-year-old, like other modern Indian batters, have a problem in converting centuries into daddies so it wasn't a surprise when he fell minutes after the milestone. It was a nothing shot, an uppish drive off Jomel Warrican pouched by cover. 100 off 197 balls (12x4). But what that score won't tell you is what made this innings a quintessential Rahul ton. The leaves where he tucked his bat behind, like a shy child hiding behind a parent on the first day of school. The nudges in front of square off spin. The stylish drives in front of square off pace. That facet of his batsmanship has been front and centre for the hosts as they manage a changing of guard at the top of the order.

Since the beginning of last year, Yashasvi Jaiswal (1957 runs; 61.9 per cent in boundaries), Shubman Gill (1703; 53.3 per cent) and Rishabh Pant (1156; 60.7 per cent) have been ever present in their top-order. All three of them score over 50 per cent of their runs in fours or sixes. Rahul, in fact, is the only batter in this top-order who has scored fewer than 50 per cent of his runs in fours and sixes.

Peel back the curtain even more and Rahul is also a throwback opener at a time when the Test nations around the world are identifying batters with a penchant for boundary-hitting and taking the game on. Since the beginning of last year, Rahul is the only regular opener without a six (minimum = six matches). He's also the only opener nearer to the top of the run-scorers list who has scored a bulk of his runs not in boundaries (he's fourth behind Jaiswal, Ben Duckett and Zak Crawley and followed by Usman Khawaja, Pathum Nissanka and Aiden Markram). What that list shows is that Rahul is more readily able to sacrifice his fluent strokeplay to play a more conventional game when he wears his India creams.

It was visible across the evening on Day One and before lunch on Day Two against the West Indies. He was unhurried, it was like watching a series set to 0.75x on an OTT platform. It doesn't matter if the bowler is ready to deliver but he will take his time. It doesn't matter if the batter at the other end is boundary-hunting, he will take his time.

And, of late, he's increasingly becoming better at compartmentalising and forgetting what happened the previous delivery. He had a life off Jayden Seales within the first few overs of the morning, when the West Indies pacer found the outside edge but it bisected keeper and slip. Off the next ball he faced, he defended with the full blade. Concentration on point.

After the slower bowlers came on, he milked them for plenty of singles on either side of the wicket. That's the one shot you need in your arsenal to have success in India, especially against spin and Rahul used it in abundance. The gentle clip off the pads or the prod down the ground. Out of the 44 singles, 22 came off the leg side to spinners.

This next phase of Rahul the opener will be crucial to India's short-term Test aspirations because he acts as the bridge between two generations. For all the focus on Gill, Jaiswal and Pant, Rahul's presence at the top is like that of the seasons. A constant in a sea of change.

With a little help from Root and Kobe, Jurel keeps punching up

Keeper-batter Dhruv Jurel has quietly become a plug and play option | AFP

DURING an Indian Premier League (IPL) season a few years ago, Joe Root walked to Dhruv Jurel for a few friendly words. "I'm expecting," the English No. 4 had told him, "you to be in touch with me during the off season. I know that you are going to be a star."

When Jurel first broke into the Royals set-up in 2023, he had turned to Root whenever he had doubts about anything. Two years and four months later, the former English captain's prophecy is on track.

As the shadows started to lengthen at the new Motera on Friday, a Jurel flick to the boundary brought up his first three figure landmark in Tests. The everyday brilliance of Rishabh Pant's batting has meant India have not really celebrated Jurel's ascension from T20 finisher to Test batter but he has quietly become a plug and play option without the hosts missing their main keeper.

In India, his scores read: 46, 90, 39*, 15 and, now, 125. Sure, he's yet to face some of the better spinners in these conditions but that's not doing him enough justice for his challenge has been something more fundamental. When you essentially know that you are a back-up player, the opportunities are going to be few and far between. Working in such a pressure situation can be unsustainable in the long run because even when you make the XI, you know there's going to be a caveat next to your name irrespective of what you do.

Great performance behind the sticks? But... A 100 after coming into bat at No. 5? If only... His batting allows the team to play an extra bowler? Well...

How does Jurel manage to forget all of this whenever he plays in the Test XI? Through a combination of mental and physical exercises. One, as a disciple of Kobe Bryant's 'Mamba Mentality' — keep putting in the effort to become the best version of yourself every single day and the rest will follow — the 24-year-old tries to turn every lemon into lemonade.

When a question was put to him at the end of the day's play with respect to lack of opportunities, he said: "It's about the huge privilege," the centurion said. "You are with the squad. How many get to be with the squad and how many play Test cricket? I know one day I will get the opportunity and I have to be 100 per cent ready to be able to deliver.

One way to be ready all the time is via visualisations. "I do a lot of visualisations whether I play or not," he said. "I know I have gone through this and what the feeling is like. I visualise everything, from walking in (to the middle) to taking stance... nothing feels different. I am always prepared."

He has also kept alive his working relationship with Root, somebody the batter turned to even during the England tour earlier this year. "(Even) during the England tour... I know him since he came to Rajasthan Royals," he said. "Whenever I feel there is something, I go to him as to what I can do with my batting and he gives simple answers as to how I can play and tackle situations. He says it is difficult to remain consistent but you have to keep doing the same things everyday and you will get the results."

It's giving him the desired results both in front and behind the stumps.

England spinner Linsey Smith (R) celebrates a South African wicket | AP

ENGLAND spinners led by Linsey Smith dominated the proceedings as they thrashed South Africa by 10 wickets to begin their Women's World Cup campaign in a style at the Barsapara Cricket Stadium, Guwahati on Friday.

England skipper Nat Sciver-Brunt chose to field first and her bowlers proved the decision right by bundling out the opponents for a paltry 69 in just 20.4 overs. Wicketkeeper-batter Sinalo Jafta (22) was the lone South African to breach the double figure mark.

England broke no sweat in chasing the paltry target as opener Tammy Beaumont (21) and Amy Jones (40) knocked off the required runs in just 14.1 overs. The dominant victory meant England stormed to the top spot on the points table thanks to their strong net run rate of 3.77.

Jafta fought the lone battle but got no support from another end as South Africa were dismissed for their lowest score against England, second-lowest at a World Cup and third-lowest score overall. Brief scores: South Africa 69 in 20.4 ovs (Sinalo Jafta 22; Linsey Smith 3/7, Nat Sciver-Brunt 2/5, Sophie Ecclestone 2/19, Charlie Dean 2/14) lost to England 73/0 in 14.1 ovs (Tammy Beautmont 21 not out, Amy Jones 40 not out).

AS SRI LANKA TAKE ON AUSTRALIA IN COLOMBO, A LOOK...

Switching gears

After spending the past few weeks in India, the defending champs will be looking to adapt to conditions in Sri Lanka. The surfaces in Colombo will not be as flat as Indore or New Delhi or New Chandigarh, and the opening duo of Alyssa Healy and Pheobe Litchfield will have to do a lot more than give a quick start.

Lanka's butterfingers

At one point during the opening game of the World Cup, Sri Lanka had India by the ropes. They were half a side down and nowhere near safe, but dropped catches and lack of intent on the field caused SL to slide. Against Australia, at home, they will not want to repeat the same.

SL seek inspiration

The last time these two teams played in an ODI World Cup, Chamari Athapaththu took the world by storm with her unbeaten 178 in 2017. It took a Meg Lanning special for Australia to win the game, but SL need their skipper to create some magic and inspire her team at home.

Para Worlds: Stray dogs bite two coaches

AGENCIES @ New Delhi

STRAY dog bite incidents marred the World Para Athletics Championships at the Jawaharlal Nehru Stadium on Friday with two foreign coaches — one from Kenya and Japan being the victims though they are out of danger after being treated at a nearby hospital, representatives have said.

Kenyan coach Dennis Mwanzo was speaking to one of his athletes outside the competition arena of the stadium, when a stray dog suddenly came and bit him, according to the official. "The incident happened around 10 am. Blood was oozing out of his leg and the medical team stationed at the stadium reached there," Joel Atuti, a government of Kenya representative, told reporters. In another isolated incident, a Japanese coach identified as Mieko Okumatsu was bitten by another stray dog.

He was also treated at a nearby hospital and was taken to his assigned hotel. Days before the Championships began, the organising committee had written to the Municipal Corporation of Delhi to remove stray dogs from the venue.

3rd medal for lifter Mirabai at World Championships

FIROZ MIRZA @ Chennai

STAR India weightlifter Mirabai Chanu won a silver medal at the IWF World Championships in the 48kg weight category in Forde, Norway on Thursday. The medal was her third at the prestigious event. She had earlier clinched a gold medal in the 2017 edition in the 48kg and finished second competing in 49kg in the 2022 Worlds to bag silver.

The Tokyo Olympics silver medallist had to switch to 48kg from 49kg after the International Weightlifting Federation revised the weight categories for the 2028 Los Angeles Games earlier this year. The Manipuri lifter, who competed in 49kg from January 2019 to the 2024 Paris Olympics, first took part in an international event after changing the category at the Commonwealth Championships held in Ahmedabad in August this year and won the gold.

Worlds medals
2017	Gold in 48kg
2022	Silver in 49kg
2025	Silver in 48kg

On the day, Mirabai could clear just one attempt in the snatch section lifting 84kg. The remaining two attempts of 87kg could not be completed by her. The 31-year-old then successfully executed all three attempts in the clean and jerk section to finish second behind North Korea's Ri Song Gum. She lifted 109kg, 112kg and 115kg with ease to win her second Worlds silver.

Mirabai lifted a total weight of 199kg, the same she heaved at the Paris Games to finish fourth. She had lifted 88kg in the snatch section and 111kg in the clean and jerk section while competing in the 49kg at the Games. At the Tokyo Olympics where she won the silver medal, she had lifted 87kg in the snatch and 115kg in the clean and jerk taking her total lift to 202kg.

Ahead of the Worlds, head coach Vijay Sharma had said the target was to breach the 200-mark, however, that couldn't be achieved in Norway. The last time she achieved the 200kg total lift was in 2022 Worlds where lifted 87kg and 113kg to be ranked second. Notwithstanding the result, Sharma affirmed they have achieved what they wanted from the tournament. "The performance, given the fact that she is competing in the new weight category, has improved. The event also gave us an opportunity to check where we need to put efforts ahead of the Commonwealth Games and Asian Game scheduled next year. We have identified the areas and will work on them as we have enough time now," head coach Sharma told this daily.

Missing Asiad medal in sight

The performance here gave us a good insight on what to do next. She had won medals at the Worlds and Olympics but Asian Games medal is missing from her trophy cabinet. Hopefully next year she can win the medal as we have enough time to work on areas which we have identified here.

— Vijay Sharma, India's weightlifting head coach

It was learnt that Mirabai has some issue with her thumb but the coach said it's not serious. "Such issues are part and parcel of the game but it is not serious." North Korea's Ri Song set world records in total (213kg) as well as clean and jerk to finish at the top of the podium. After lifting 91kg in the snatch, she went on to heave 120kg and 122kg in the last two attempts of the clean and jerk section setting the world records twice in the C&J and total lift. Thailand's Thanyathon Sukcharoen settled for bronze with a total of 198kg (88kg + 110kg).

BFI CUP 2025

Ex-Worlds medallist Deepak plotting return to national team

ANMOL GURUNG @ Chennai

Deepak Bhoria | PTI

NOT so long ago, Deepak Bhoria was one of the leading faces in men's boxing in the country. After a timely medal at 2023 World Championships, just a year before the coveted Olympic Games, things were looking bright for the Haryana pugilist. But that light faded off as soon as he lost during a crucial Olympic qualifying tournament in Italy in early 2024 summer.

Currently featuring in the BFI Cup 2025 at the VIT, here, Deepak has made peace with that setback and is plotting to make a comeback in the national team. The top-two finishers from the ongoing event will be included in the national camp.

With the 2028 LA Olympics in mind, Deepak is competing in a new weight category, shifting from 51kg to 55kg. Needless to say, it has been a rather tough road to recovery for the 28-year-old from Haryana. "I had an injury to my right hand (wrist) and I had to undergo rehab for that. That was not too serious though. I haven't had much competition in the last one year or so. What I have in my mind right now is to be properly ready in order to enter the camp," Deepak told this daily.

Away from the limelight, Deepak said he had been studying the game from afar, learning a thing or two and totally committed to individual training with future in mind.

"It's an individual sport. We have to manage ourselves. If you're out of the camp, you don't get any tournaments. During that time, I was just working on myself. The game is changing now, there are boxers who are employing more power punches, boxers from Uzbekistan, Kazakhstan. Watching them, we can also add a few things here and there. I want to bring in those changes... If I want to lift my game, I have to enter with an improved mindset. If I can do proper individual training when I'm out of the camp, I can carry that forward to the camp." Having cruised in the opening two rounds of the Chennai meet, the Armyman is on path to his primary goal. On Friday, the Services pugilist defeated Sagar of Haryana by unanimous verdict (5-0). If he keeps up his winning run, he could potentially go on to meet fellow Services pugilist Amit Panghal, who also has similar aspirations.

After some introspection in the last one year or so, Deepak, with more understanding of the sport on his side, is looking to be well-rounded in the coming days. "If I happen to be part of any international meet, I want to be in good form. That's the mindset. And moreover, I'm competing in a new weight category (55kg). I have to be prepared for the challenges that come along with it (new weight category). And there are major tournaments on the horizon, I have to be ready for that," Deepak, who's backed by Olympic Gold Quest, said.

This is not the first time he's trying out the new weight category. In the 1st Chief of Army Staff Boxing Cup in Army Sports Institute, Pune, he had competed in the 55kg for the first time and had lost by split decision in the last-four stage. Having gotten a feel of the new category, he emphasized his need to boost his strength. After the recent Liverpool World Championships setback, Deepak is aware that the door is open for the likes of him ahead of the Asian and Commonwealth Games next year. But he's also quick to ascertain that it's still early days for him.

Source: Environmental Impact of the Escalation of Conflict in the Gaza Strip

Ending the human suffering that has engulfed Gaza must be the priority. But restoring freshwater systems and removing debris are equally urgent to save lives and rebuild a foundation for recovery.

— Inger Andersen, UNEP executive director

SV KRISHNA CHAITANYA @ Chennai

TWO years of relentless conflict in the Gaza Strip have left an environmental disaster of unprecedented scale, the United Nations Environment Programme (UNEP) warns in a new report released this week. The assessment portrays a collapsing ecosystem, polluted water supplies, and farmland laid to waste, raising fears that recovery could take decades without immediate, science-based interventions. The report titled "Environmental Impact of the Escalation of Conflict in the Gaza Strip" details the destruction up to September 2025. It says the territory's environmental collapse is compounding a dire humanitarian crisis. The report comes just weeks after an independent panel concluded parts of Gaza are already in famine. "Ending the human suffering that has engulfed Gaza must be the priority," said UNEP Executive Director Inger Andersen. "But restoring freshwater systems and removing debris are equally urgent to save lives and rebuild a foundation for recovery."

The war has crippled Gaza's water infrastructure. Of the 54 storage reservoirs and pumping facilities that existed before October 2023, only nine remain active — just three of them undamaged —representing an 84 per cent loss in capacity. Gaza's seawater desalination plant, once capable of producing 30,000 cubic meters per day, is operating at less than a sixth of that due to war damage and chronic fuel shortages. Of 214 groundwater desalination units, only 84 remain functional. Together, they supply just 22 million cubic meters per year, well below the population's needs.

None of Gaza's six wastewater treatment plants are operational, pushing untreated sewage into the aquifer and marine environment. With piped networks shattered, many families have resorted to makeshift cesspits, increasing risks of groundwater contamination, the report says. The public health toll has been devastating. Reported cases of acute watery diarrhoea surged 36-fold between 2023 and 2025, from 11,562 to over 412,000 cases. Acute jaundice syndrome, a marker of hepatitis A, exploded 384-fold to 41,515 cases. Children under five account for 65 per cent of diarrhoeal cases. Polio, absent for decades, has re-emerged through wastewater transmission, while respiratory infections linked to dust from explosions and rubble exceeded 37,000 cases in June 2025 alone. Before the war, nearly one-third of Gaza's land was used for agriculture, producing olives, citrus, vegetables, and poultry. Today, agriculture has all but collapsed. By August 2025, 91.7 per cent of Gaza's cropland had been damaged, according to satellite analysis. The destruction is near-total for certain crops: 97 per cent of tree crops such as olive groves, 95 per cent of shrubland, and 82 per cent of annual crops like vegetables are gone. With farmland inaccessible or destroyed, food production has collapsed.

Over half a million people face famine conditions, and nearly one million more are in a state of emergency. "Food production at scale is no longer possible," the report warns. Fuel shortages have worsened the damage, with civilians cutting down the few remaining trees for firewood. Soil, compacted by military activity and stripped of vegetation, has lost its ability to absorb rainwater, raising flood risks and reducing groundwater recharge. UNEP warns that damage to soils may be permanent. The war has also levelled Gaza's urban fabric. Of an estimated 2,50,000 buildings, 78 per cent have been damaged or destroyed, including more than 2,82,000 housing units, leaving most of Gaza's 2.2 million people displaced. The destruction has created 61 million tonnes of debris — 20 times more than all previous Gaza conflicts since 2008 combined. The volume is equivalent to 15 Great Pyramids of Giza or 25 Eiffel Towers. While much of the debris is inert concrete and brick, UNEP highlights dangerous "hot spots" where asbestos, industrial chemicals, and heavy metals from destroyed solar installations pose serious contamination risks. In refugee camps, older asbestos-laced construction is especially hazardous.

Soil contamination is another looming crisis. While no comprehensive chemical survey has been conducted, UNEP warns of significant risks from heavy metals, unexploded ordnance, fuel spills, and industrial waste, noting that past conflicts suggest contamination could persist for decades. Marine ecosystems are also threatened, with untreated sewage and contaminated runoff likely polluting Gaza's coastal waters, though testing remains impossible due to security constraints.

UNEP has set out 30 recommendations to begin reversing the damage. These include rapid reconstruction of water and sewage infrastructure, large-scale debris clearance with safe handling of asbestos and hazardous materials, mapping of soil contamination, long-term ecological restoration, recycling of rubble to aid reconstruction, and the inclusion of local expertise and communities in planning. The report stresses that Gaza's recovery hinges on an immediate ceasefire and coordinated, science-based action. Without it, UNEP warns, the enclave faces "a legacy of environmental destruction that could affect the health and well-being of generations."

Since 1999, UNEP has conducted over 40 post-conflict environmental assessments worldwide, from the Balkans to Sudan. But the Gaza findings rank among the most severe. Compared to UNEP's first assessment in June 2024, debris has risen 57 per cent in just over a year, while damage to cropland now exceeds 90 per cent. "The situation is going from bad to worse," Andersen said. "If this continues, it will leave behind an ecological collapse that will take generations to undo."

The Final Act

The Sky is Pink director Shonali Bose reflects on her documentary film A Fly on the Wall, which chronicles the final days of her friend Chika Kapadia, the screening of which is healing several hearts

In 2022, Chika Kapadia on whom A Fly on the Wall is based, chose to end his life through assisted death in Switzerland

SRUTHI HEMACHANDRAN

WHEN Shonali Bose speaks about death, there's no hushed tone or fearful pause. The National Award-winning director was recently in the city for the screening of her docu-film A Fly on the Wall at Bangalore International Centre, and she leans into the subject with a candour that is both startling and comforting. In the film, she becomes a 'fly on the wall', capturing her friend Chika Kapadia's final moments, who despite cancer was full of life as a standup comic. In 2022, he chose to end his life through assisted death at Dignitas in Switzerland, a decision that became the emotional heart of the documentary.

Bose has lived through the loss of her mother at 21 and later her son Ishan, whose death she believes gifted her a radical acceptance of mortality. "For me, death became just another moment. It became something wonderful," she says. Reflecting further, she adds, "It doesn't matter the years. It's like running a marathon. Whether you finish in 50 minutes or five hours, you've still crossed the finishing line."

While Bose's previous films, Amu (2005), Margarita with a Straw (2015) and The Sky is Pink (2019), also grappled with loss, A Fly on the Wall was different. This time, a real person was dying and Bose was present throughout, witnessing vulnerability and courage that cannot be staged.

A Silent Ode

Shooting with Kapadia was raw and at times deeply moving. Bose made sure to leave out intimate moments from Kapadia's life, a promise made to her dear friend before his death. "His thank-you speeches weren't included. I'd also made this commitment that the camera will be cut the moment he slips into coma," she says as she remembers how silence and tears took them over shortly. "For a moment, there was nobody in the room and I hugged him tightly, huddling him in a last goodbye."

Documenting Kapadia's final days transformed Bose's understanding of dignity. She reflects, "Watching Chika take his last breath was so peaceful; I wish I could give this experience to everyone." She underscores that in India, where many people lack the right to live with dignity, access to a dignified death should be universal. "Even the poorest shouldn't be forced to endure prolonged pain," she says. The process was also a lesson in empathy and patience. "Chika would shout at me, calling me a fly on the wall. He exposed himself in ways I had never seen: laughing, crying, frustrated, vulnerable. Being there in those moments was terrifying and beautiful at the same time," Bose recalls.

Nilesh Maniyar, her co-creator and Kapadia's mutual friend, pushed her to capture moments honestly, reminding her why this story matters. Another key collaborator was sound designer Resul Pookutty, providing lapel mics and sound equipment, ensuring the film retained its clarity and intimacy.

Beyond the Screen

Yet the journey to audiences was fraught with obstacles with the film facing repeated rejection at major western international festivals, including the Toronto International Film Festival, despite getting positive response from all corners, including questions about why the film was not going to the Oscars. Bose remembers the frustration vividly, as she says, "Filmmakers don't talk about these feelings. I've cried, thinking how no one is taking this, even the festivals I attended in the past. The only conclusion is that it is not good enough. But then that's not the experience of anybody watching."

> If not a filmmaker, I would want to be a death healer. I want to work with people facing death, or who have lost someone and help them find a space to process it
> Shonali Bose, director

But when audiences finally saw it, the response was transformative. At Busan International Film Festival, the screening was house full, the audience young and the standing ovation unforgettable. In the lobby afterwards, many shared their own stories in tears. Bose recounts, "People tell you things they've never spoken about. A young girl at the Dharamshala International Film Festival told me she was suicidal, but watching the film gave her hope. It's not about death, it's about life."

Bose deliberately avoids OTT platforms, fearing the film could be buried without festival recognition or marketing. Instead, she focuses on community screenings where conversations are intimate and meaningful. "The reach is smaller, but the conversations are rewarding. People speak about death, cry, laugh, and comfort one another. This is the work I want to do."

She reflects on her own transformation as well: "If not a filmmaker, I would want to be a death healer. I want to work with people facing death, or who have lost someone and help them find a space to process it."

Bangalore Queer Film Festival is set to mark its 15th edition with a focus on stories of queer lives in India, particularly Bengaluru

On the Rainbow Screen

Queer activist Akkai Padmashali is featured in one of the films that will be screened

MAHIMA NAGARAJU

THERE weren't many queer films in the Indian context at the time. They were not in theatres, so whoever was gay, lesbian, trans or queer in Bangalore had no way to access representations of queer life," recalls Nitya Vasudevan, one of the co-directors of Bangalore Queer Film Festival (BQFF), explaining the necessity for connection and desire to see oneself represented in stories, which led to the first edition in 2008.

With the advent of OTT and the last decade seeing a handful of theatrical releases, audiences may not be starving for meaningful queer + like 17 years ago, but they aren't spoilt for choice either. Each year, the long beeline outside BQFF's gates, with people, especially young ones, hoping to snag a seat, is perhaps proof of this desire for connection and representation.

With its 15th edition kicked off on Friday, BQFF is focusing on Indian films, especially stories of and by the city's queer community. "It's been quite nice because we had a lot of films made by people who are part of the community in Bangalore, who have also been part of the BQFF audience. We're also including a retrospective this year (on Sunday morning), bringing films from the past that we and the audiences have really liked," says Anushka M, another co-director. The films on show are a mix of short films, features and documentaries, alongside more experimental films. "There's a film called "A Miniscule Minority" that talks about various political parties and what their relationship to bringing queer politics into their agenda has been. Basically, looking into queer rights movements and many activists trying to directly engage with these parties," she highlights. One of the activists featured in it is Bengaluru-based Akkai Padmashali. "The closing film, Zinda Hai, is a fun documentary film made in a house in Goa, which follows a bunch of young trans and queer people living together, creating punk music," Anushka adds.

Over the years, the festival has become a place to build community for Bengalureans. Anushka points out, "Loneliness is something that all of us face at various points, queer or not, and I think watching films together and just the act of coming together is quite beautiful". Vasudevan adds, "Slowly, it also became a space of gathering where people can make friends, spend time among a large group of queer people, dress up in drag, whatever they want."

(BQFF will be held at Medai - The Stage, Koramangala, till October 5. For details, visit bqff.in)

APPLE CIDER VINEGAR: WHAT DOES IT REALLY DO?

Health fads often promise quick fixes, and apple cider vinegar (ACV) has been one of the most talked-about superfoods in recent years. From weight loss claims to skin remedies, it is often portrayed as a miracle cure. But how much of this is fact, and how much is hype? Here's a closer look at what ACV actually does for your body.

WHAT IS APPLE CIDER VINEGAR?

ACV is made by fermenting apple juice in two steps. First, natural sugars are converted into alcohol to form cider. Then, through further fermentation, the alcohol turns into acetic acid, which gives ACV its strong smell and taste.

BLOOD SUGAR AND DIABETES

Some studies show that taking small amounts of ACV with meals or before bedtime can help reduce spikes in blood sugar and insulin levels. This may make it useful as a supporting tool for people managing type 2 diabetes. However, ACV cannot replace medication, a healthy diet, or regular exercise. It has a limited role and should be treated as an addition, not a cure.

SKIN HEALTH AND ACNE

Online sources often claim ACV works against acne and discolouration because of its antimicrobial and exfoliating properties. In reality, there is no solid evidence to support this. Its high acidity can irritate or even damage skin if applied directly. Consulting a dermatologist before using it topically is the safer route.

KILLING BACTERIA

Acetic acid in ACV can kill some bacteria, especially those found in raw vegetables like salad leaves. But it is not effective for disinfecting wounds or treating infections, and its use on cuts can be harmful.

WEIGHT LOSS CLAIMS

Perhaps the most popular belief is that ACV burns fat. A 2009 study reported modest weight loss among participants who consumed vinegar daily. However, experts, including those from Harvard Health, note that such studies were small, short-term, and not specific to ACV. Some suggest that acetic acid may slightly boost metabolism, but the evidence is far from conclusive. At best, ACV may aid satiety, helping you feel fuller, but it is no replacement for a calorie-controlled diet and regular exercise.

HOW MUCH IS SAFE?

Most experts agree that one to two tablespoons a day, diluted in water, is safe. Consuming more can erode tooth enamel, irritate the throat, and upset digestion.

THE TAKEAWAY

ACV can be part of a healthy diet, especially in salad dressings or as a pickling agent. But it is not a magic bullet for weight loss or disease prevention. Enjoy it in moderation, but don't expect it to undo the effects of an unhealthy lifestyle. For long-term health, balanced eating and consistent physical activity remain the true essentials.

Chai, chai...

With 'Chai Day' celebrating India's classic masala tea, CE brews up a curation of treats inspired by its flavours

Spiced Chai Martini

Ingredients

- Vodka: 2 oz
- Chai concentrate: 1 oz
- Lemon juice: ½ oz
- Ground cinnamon: A dash
- Ice cubes: As needed

Chai concentrate

- Black tea: 5 tsps
- Water: 5 cups
- Ginger: 2-3 inches
- Sugar: 5 tsps
- Star anise: 1
- Cinnamon: 2 sticks
- Clove: 4
- Cardamom: 10 pods
- Fennel seeds: 1 tsp
- Black pepper: ½ tsp

For the rim

- Ground cinnamon: ¼ tsp
- Sugar: 2 tsp

Method: Chai concentrate: Lightly crush star anise, cinnamon, cardamom, clove, fennel seeds and black pepper together. Take the spices and ginger in a saucepan. Boil it with 5 cups of water. Let it simmer for five minutes. Add sugar and tea powder. Let it steep for 5 minutes and turn off the heat. Let it sit for 10 minutes. Strain the tea concentrate. Cool it completely before storing.

Cocktail: Mix cinnamon and sugar on a plate. Rub the rim of the chilled glass with lime and roll it in the cinnamon sugar. Fill a cocktail shaker with ice cubes. Add vodka, chai tea concentrate, fresh lemon juice, and a dash of ground cinnamon. Shake well for 30 seconds. Pour the mixture into the glass.

Classic Masala Chai

Ingredients

- Water: 2 cups
- Tea: 2 tsp
- Green cardamom pods: 2
- Clove: 1
- Ginger: 1 inch (chopped into slices)
- Black peppercorn: ¼ tsp (freshly cracked)
- Cinnamon stick: ½
- Milk: 1 cup
- Sugar: 2 tsp or to taste

Method

Add spices to a mortar and crush them lightly. Pour water into a saucepan on high heat, and add the spices. Bring the water to a boil and add the tea leaves. Lower the heat to a medium to low setting and simmer for two minutes or till the tea is strong enough. Then, add the milk and let it boil, bubbling to the top. Remove the pot from the heat. Pour it and drink.

Spiced chai scones

Ingredients

- Scones:
- All-purpose flour: 250g
- Baking powder: 1/4 tsp
- Salt: 1/4 tsp
- Unsalted butter: 75g (melted)
- Vanilla extract: 1 tsp
- White caster sugar: 25g
- Chai spice: 2 tsp (1/4 tsp of cinnamon, cardamom, nutmeg and a pinch of clove)
- Saffron: A pinch
- Tea leaves: 2 tsp
- Yoghurt: 2 tbsp
- Milk: 100ml

Egg-wash

- Milk: 1/2 tbsp
- Butter: 1 tsp
- Maple syrup: 1 tsp

Method

Melt the butter. Keep it in the fridge for 10-15 mins. Preheat the oven to 220 degrees Celsius. Boil the milk, add tea to it, along with vanilla and spices. Steep for 10 mins. Mix the flour, baking powder, salt and sugar. Add butter to it and mix it till you get a breadcrumb texture. Filter the tea and add it to the mix with yoghurt. Mix until everything comes together. Roll the dough into 2cm thick sheets. Cut out your scones with a 2.5-inch round cutter. Mix the egg wash ingredients together and microwave for 10 seconds to melt the butter and loosen the syrup. Brush on top of each scone. Bake on a lined baking sheet on the middle rack for around 12 minutes. Serve with jam.

Apple Masala Chai Cake

Ingredients

- Unsalted butter: 3/4 cup
- Darjeeling tea leaves: 2 tbsp, finely ground
- All-purpose flour: 2 cups
- Baking powder: 2 tsp
- Baking soda:1/4 tsp
- Chai masala spice mix: 1 1/2 tsp
- Sea salt: 1/4 tsp
- Apples: 2
- Brown sugar: 1 cup packed
- Eggs: 4 large
- Icing sugar for dusting

Chai masala mix:

- Seeds of 10 green cardamom pods, 1 black cardamom pod
- 6 black peppercorns
- 4 Whole cloves
- One 1-inch piece cinnamon stick
- 1 tbsp ground ginger

Method: Grease a round cake tin and line its base with parchment paper. Preheat oven to about 175 degrees Celsius. In a bowl, sift together ground tea leaves, flour, baking powder, baking soda, chai masala and salt. Coat the diced apples with this dry mix. Cream the butter and brown sugar until light and fluffy. Add eggs one at a time. Incorporate the dry mix until no more streaks of flour are visible. Fold in the apples. Pour the batter into the prepared tin and level the top. Bake for 55-60 minutes. Let it cool. Dust with icing sugar.

KRISHNA P S

TEA is a constant companion for every Indian, from the moment one wakes up, to breaks that make work hours bearable and evenings when one sits down to unwind.

Chai Day, on September 21, is an American homage to our very own masala chai. No one has been able to pinpoint its origin in the subcontinent. We know that the cultivation of tea leaves began in ancient China and thee was even an ancient trade route linking India and China, via Tibet.

With colonialism, tea gained a new reputation. India, the second-largest producer, began cultivating it in the 1840s in the hills of Assam, Bengal, Kerala, Tamil Nadu and Karnataka

Tea, at the end of the day, is more than a drink, it is an emotion.

Thai Tea Panna Cotta

Ingredients

- Unsweetened oat milk: 1 1/2 cups
- Thai tea leaves*: 1 tbsp
- Pure maple syrup: 1 tbsp
- Agar agar powder*: 1 tsp
- Vanilla bean paste: 1 tsp
- Pinch of salt

Method: In a small pot over low heat, bring the milk and tea leaves to a boil. Lower the heat to a simmer and cook for 3 minutes. Then, remove the pan from the heat and let it steep for 30 minutes. Strain out the leaves. Bring the tea to a light simmer over medium-low heat, then add the maple syrup, agar agar powder, vanilla bean paste, and salt. Cook, whisking continuously, for 3 minutes to activate the agar. Divide the mixture between two 6-oz. ramekins and chill for 3 hours or overnight. To serve, gently invert the panna cotta onto a small plate or enjoy it straight from the ramekin.

Chai Custard

Method

In a pot, add milk, cream, tea powders, ginger and a tablespoon of brown sugar. Bring the mixture to a boil and reduce the heat. Simmer for 10 minutes to brew. Meanwhile, whisk the eggs, cornflour, vanilla and the remaining brown sugar until the mixture is smooth. Slowly pour the hot tea mix into the egg mixture, and keep whisking until all the chai mixture has been added to the egg mixture. Heat this custard mixture on low heat in a pot. Stirring constantly, cook the mixture until it thickens. The mixture should be thick enough. Pour the custard through a strainer. Fill ¾ of the glasses with the mix and leave them in the fridge to set for 2 hours. Serve with whipped cream and biscuits.

Ingredients

- Milk: 1/2 cup

RUBINATIONS
Rubi Chakravarti
Writer, actor and funny girl

THE beating of the drums, the 'dhak' as they call it in Bengal and the beautiful waft of the scented camphor, the sound of the bell (that the priest resolutely rings), the familiar smells and sounds of the pujo pandal evokes a deep sense of nostalgia in my aching heart which transports me back to Calcutta. There was something electrifying about the atmosphere. There was a sense of belonging and a sense of something bigger than oneself happening all around you. New clothes, unrestricted supply of traditional foods and sweets, the adoration of uncles and aunts, the shy looks that the youngsters gave each other, the dancing the joie de vivre that filled the season still makes my mature heart race. Basically, every 'pujo' was a community get together where the older people would have a chance to mingle, talk shop, show off their culinary skills and fix marriages! That is why the word 'para' or neighbourhood was used. Every 'para' set up their pandals, served 'bhog' (special food made especially for pujo) attended pujas and generally spent the day at the pandal wearing new clothes, laughing, talking, making arrangements for the 'maha-arati' and special cultural events. If you speak to any self-respecting 'Bong' about the festival, their eyes will light up as they delve into their memories.

Sabrina Dey and Joyadrita Chatterjee

I was born in namma ooru and my dad founded one of the leading defence establishments in the city. I believe there used to be a friendly competition between the 'Army para' and the Airforce para' as to who would have the grander celebration in this cantonment town, buzzing with immigrants who worked together to make a better India. As children I remember pandal-hopping (the two of them!) and we would have a friendly rivalry, trying to ferret out information as to what 'bhog' the opposite party would be serving (the highlight of the 'pujo') and if their entertainment programme was better. Even putting this down on paper brings a smile to my face!

But, as it always happens, the 'para' celebrations have given way to more commercial pandals, and the tight-knit neighbourhood has given way to 'the hoards'. Commercialisation is rampant as even the flowers to be given to the goddess have to be bought and the 'bhog' too is not free. I hate the fact that we need to hang around with tickets to partake in something which was once a family-type of celebration. Everything looks and feels like a tacky fairground. The pushing and the unfamiliarity frighten me and I usually step away, promising myself that there will be no next time.

Luckily, this year, we had ourselves a small and intimate celebration with only family and when my good friend Sabrina Dey, GM of ITC Windsor invited me to partake on homechef/consultant Joyadrita Chaterjee's lunch (which was a part of their ongoing festival), I accepted without a second thought. I can only say that the food was representative of the 'homes' of Bengal. None of that 'progressive' menu nonsense, but fresh ingredients, prepared with love and served with pride. Joyadrita's eyes sparkled as she reminisced about her how her mother's and aunt's recipes influenced her cuisine and it was fantastic to hear. Of course, Sabrina and I (true blue Bangalorean Bongs that we are) interspersed her conversation with our own special anecdotes of nostalgia.

May this season bring us all together in love and peace!

A VISUALLY STUNNING EXPLORATION OF MYTH AND POWER

A SHARADHAA

WITH Kantara (2022), Rishab Shetty delivered one of Indian cinema's most unforgettable climaxes, where divinity seemed to descend on the screen to give us a memorable experience. Three years later, he returns with Kantara: Chapter 1, a prequel that digs into the roots of the saga. The film represents truths about rituals, fears, gods, and the people who carry them. Set 1,500 years ago, this prequel feels more like folklore shared among people sitting around a fire.

Once upon a time, there was a king named Rajashekara (Jayaram), who was haunted by the land of Kantara and the wrath of the Brahma Rakshasa. His son Kulashekara (Gulshan Devaiah) inherits his father's throne, but he doesn't possess his father's wisdom. Reckless and indulgent, he gets into trouble. Rajashekara's daughter Kanakavathi (Rukmini Vasanth) grows into a quiet strength, becoming one of the story's unexpected anchors. On the other side is Berme (Rishab Shetty), adopted by the tribal people of Eshwara Hoodhota in Kantara's forest. He becomes the lens through which dynasties clash, jungles breathe, and curses unfold. His journey is not about destiny; it is shaped by experience, choices, and the burden of a land marked by belief.

Kantara: Chapter 1 unfolds like folklore. Warnings echo like ancestral whispers: do not enter the forest, do not disturb what you cannot understand. Kulashekara's arrogance ensures he ignores this advice. This story is not just about royalty versus tribes; it is about belief versus arrogance, myths versus human limits. Rishab builds this world with care. The Kadamba-era backdrop, with busy ports, spice markets, and trade routes influenced by Arab and Portuguese cultures, feels lived-in. Every drumbeat, chariot wheel, and coin connects to something larger.

Much of this atmosphere comes from Arvind Kashyap's cinematography. His work does more than capture images; it stays with you. Forests seem to breathe, shadows hint at danger, and fire blazes with energy. Every frame matters, especially the close-ups of Rishab's character that feel etched in stone. Vinesh Banglan and Dharani Gangeputra's production design grounds the story in a tangible reality. Chariots, weapons, and markets are richly detailed, supported by Pragathi Shetty's costumes. The songs, background score, and sound design by Ajaneesh Loknath—with tribal signals, chants, and rhythmic percussion—move with the film's flow. Visual effects appear only when needed, blending seamlessly. Hombale Films' production ensures both scale and richness.

The structure of Kantara: Chapter 1 mirrors the first Kantara. The first half patiently builds its world and characters, reaching a powerful moment before the interval. The second half shifts into action, balancing sweeping battles with sudden, intimate moments where arrogance brings ruin. If the original climax involved divine possession, Kantara: Chapter 1 spreads awe across multiple events: a tiger encounter, the Kumbhabhishekam ritual, and the eerie calm before war.

KANTARA: CHAPTER 1
Director: Rishab Shetty
Cast: Rishab Shetty, Rukmini Vasanth, Gulshan Devaiah, and Jayaram

RATING 3.5/5

Even amid myths, the film remains human. Berme's growing bond with Kanakavathi softens the intensity, while comic moments from Prakash Tumminad, Rakesh Poojary and others provide relief without breaking the spell but though occasionally they pull focus from the main plot.Characters feel archetypal yet fully realised—Berme's curiosity, Kulashekara's arrogance, Kanakavathi's compassion, and Rajashekara's weary wisdom. Each character exists as both a symbol and an individual.

Performances are strong. Rishab Shetty gives a layered portrayal. If his role as Shiva in Kantara was raw, which earned him a National award, Berme is more complex, torn between worldly struggle and divine undertones. Rukmini Vasanth impresses with poise and subtle strength, becoming a surprise element. Gulshan Devaiah embodies menace in Kulashekara, although the script gives him a typical antagonist role, much like characters such as Pramod Shetty and others. Jayaram as Rajashekara convincingly carries the weight of kingship and curses.

The film sometimes drags—Suresh Mallaiah's editing could be tighter—but the expansive narrative justifies its length. The action choreography by Arjun Master and Todor Lazarov is stunning, blending spectacle with primal energy. The opening chariot sequence is a masterclass in staging, while battle scenes resonate visually and audibly, each clash carrying the weight of history.

Comparisons with the original are unavoidable. If Kantara thrived on its emotional climax, Kantara Chapter 1 shines more in its scope than in depth. The finale is gripping but may not reach the same intensity as the divine possession. Instead, it explores myths, fears, and roots, touching on Guliga and Daiva. The last scene reminds us of the saying about gods manifesting in many forms to uphold Dharma. It offers explanations without oversimplification, enriching the viewer without overwhelming them. The language is simple, leaving us wondering if it was the same tone four centuries ago. Certain characters, like Prakash Tumminad, raise questions—are they standalone or connected to the first film?

By the end, what remains is not just a tale of a kingdom or a family. It is the story of the land itself; of gods who show up uninvited, of fears passed through generations, and of pride that topples empires. This is an origin myth: legends arise not only in temples but also in forests, markets, the cries of the oppressed, and the arrogance of kings.

Rishab has not just made a film; he has created a vibrant world. Viewed as folklore, history, or cinema, Kantara: Chapter 1 carries the pulse of the soil, the murmur of faith, and the echo of myth. The well still holds sacred stories. With Rishab at its centre, drawing from history, folklore, and belief, Kantara, its forests, and its mystical echoes will continue to follow us like shadows we cannot shake off.

CE FEATURES

GALIBILLI Govinda is a comedy that carries a social message, and Sangamesh has taken responsibility for the story, screenplay, dialogues, and direction for the first time Dr Sangamesh Upase, who gained fame on television as Compounder Govind and became a household name through the Silli Lalli serial, is now making his mark in cinema with Galibilli Govinda. Even while holding a government position, Sangamesh has remained committed to his artistic pursuits and entertainment projects.

Galibilli Govinda is a comedy that carries a social message, and Sangamesh has taken responsibility for the story, screenplay, dialogues, and direction for the first time. The film features his signature lines such as 'Naguvarige Maathra' and 'Arthavaaytu Bidi' as part of its core appeal.

The film blends contemporary social themes with humour, aiming to engage audiences while delivering meaningful entertainment. Song recordings have been completed with music by Palani D Senapati and choreography by Malur Srinivas. Produced under Universal Studio Vijayapura and Shri Sai Productions, the project is backed by Ambareesh Banajigere, Sandeep Rathod, and Madivalappa M Gogi. Filming is set to begin soon and the team is ready to roll.

Glad to explore my untapped potential in Landlord: Rachita Ram

From playing glamourous roles to girl-next-door characters to machete-wielding village woman in Jadeshaa K Hampi's next, the actor feels that it is time to redefine versatility with her roles

A SHARADHAA

RACHITA Ram, still riding high on the praise for her Tamil debut Coolie, is gearing up for an exciting lineup in Kannada: Ayogya 2, Cult, and Landlord. Birthday poster releases for each film showcase her range. "In Ayogya 2, I'm the girl next door, in Cult it's full glamour, but Landlord gives a completely new avatar," she says.

Her upcoming role as Chinamma in Jadeshaa K Hampi, opposite Vijay Kumar, is a striking departure. "This is an earthy village character, loud, holding a machete, walking through the village," she reveals, and adds, "After 12 years in the industry, why be monotonous? Heroes experiment, so why not us? I want to follow actors like Malashree and Shruti and break the notion of just being the glamour girl," Rachita explains.

She credits Coolie for changing her outlook. "I'm glad a role like this came my way. It showed me that deep, challenging characters are as thrilling as glamorous ones." She also recalls that actor Darshan and director Lokesh Kanagaraj encouraged her to take up the role in Landlord. "I had explained to Darshan about the character and how it has shades of his role in Kaatera. He told me the role would be challenging and I should take it. I also discussed it with director Lokesh Kanagaraj. I told him the character has an 18-year-old daughter, and he said such roles bring versatility and longevity to an actor's career and I should take it," she says.

Having completed ninety per cent of the shooting, Rachita shares that playing Chinamma pushed her limits. "I felt overstressed with the Kolar slang initially. Vijay Kumar was comfortable, but I had to push myself mentally and physically. By the second day, I found my grip, and director Jadeshaa was very happy with my performance. Somehow, he tapped into a side of my potential I hadn't explored," she shares.

Post-Coolie, Rachita is being approached with varied roles across industries. "Filmmakers want to see me in meaningful characters, even negative ones. Landlord's motion poster might change perceptions again," she hints.

While Cult is glamorous and Ayogya 2 is relatable, Rachita has more surprises. "I'll be part of a women-centric film soon, and there's another project with an all-new team. Details will be revealed shortly," she signs off.

Peaky Blinders returns with sequel series

CE FEATURES

NETFLIX announced that a sequel series for Peaky Blinders is in the works. Steven Knight, the creator of the original series, will return to work on the drama, which is greenlit for two seasons. The series will be set in 1953 in Birmingham, United Kingdom, post-World War 2. After the city is reduced to ashes and dust, it is planned to be rebuilt better. The race to the reconstruction becomes a brutal competition, with the Shelby family right in the centre of the bloodshed.

Apart from being the creator of the series and serving as a writer, Knight also serves as an executive producer alongside the star of the original series, Cillian Murphy, Karen Wilson, Martin Haines, Jamie Glazebrook, Jo McClellan, Mona Qureshi, and Toby Bentley. Kudos and BBC are backing the series. The cast and release date are not yet announced.

That apart, a follow-up film, with Cillian Murphy returning as Thomas Shelby, is set between 1919 and 1934 in Birmingham, United Kingdom, and will chronicle the rise and "sometimes fall" of the Shelby family.

Jason Statham's Shelter gets a release date

CE FEATURES

JASON Statham's new film Shelter, directed by Ric Roman Waugh of Greenland fame, is all set for release in theatres on January 30, 2026, the makers announced recently.

Also starring Bodhi Rae Breathnach, Naomi Ackie, and Bill Nighy, the film revolves around a reclusive man named Mason, played by Statham. "But when he rescues a young girl from drowning in a terrible storm, he unwittingly sets off a chain reaction that soon brings violence his way, forcing him to confront choices from his past," read the plotline. Shelter is backed under the banners Black Bear, Punch Palace Pictures, CineMachine, and Stampede Ventures. The film is distributed worldwide by Amazon, MGM Studios, and produced and financed by Miramax. Producers include Statham through his Punch Palace Productions banner, Chris Long for Longshot Productions, and Wimmer.

Besides Shelter, Statham will also feature in The Beekeeper 2. Directed by Timo Tjahjanto and written by Kurt Wimmer, the film is a sequel to the eponymous film, released in 2024.

CHARLIE COX JOINS SYNTHETIC

CE FEATURES

CHARLIE Cox and Haley Bennett are headlining the cast of Synthetic. Cox was recently seen as the titular character in Daredevil: Born Again, which will return for a second season. Ridge has also written the story for the film, which was adapted into a screenplay by Jackson Lanzig and Collin Kelly. Eric Binns and Robert Ogden Barnum are producing the film. Amanda Marshall, Jamie Wollrab, and Veronica Radaelli are serving as executive producers for the film. House of Juno and Space Pilot Media are backing the film.

The rest of the cast of Synthetic includes Oscar nominee Barkhad Abdi, Lovie Simone, Spenser Granese, and Jonathan Silverman. The film recently completed production in Kentucky, USA.

The film follows the story of a soldier whose solace in existence is disrupted by an escaped female android. Synthetic would mark Cox's reentry into films after seven years, with his previous full-fledged role coming in King of Thieves (2018), helmed by James Marsh. He also made a cameo appearance as Matt Murdock/Daredevil in the 2021 film Spider-Man: No Way Home.
